4-Cent Loss Is Large —Government Crisis Appears at Hand

By PETER T. KILBORN

LONDON, Sept. 28-The British pound, once the world's proudest and strongest currency, crashed 4 cents today to $1.64, its lowest point ever, after falling 2 cents yesterday. The losses are among the harpest in history, and the Government s now beginning to look very much like Chancellor of the Exchequer Denis Healey, the minister in charge of Britain's troubled economy, was preparing to board a plane for Hong Kong when he out off the trip and rushed back to his desk. The Bank of England finally stepped in to stem the fall, but bankers were doubtful that the central bank could do ruch to belp.

LFARE BUDGET

Increasing Costs Are Threatening Overrun of Up to $175 Million

By LINDA GREENHOUSE

State budget officials told Governor Carey yesterday that if welfare costs continued to increase et the current rate, there would be an nverrun of $120 million to $175 million in the state's walfare budget for the current fiscal year.

The higher figure is more than 10 percent of the stete's current welfare budget of $1.657 billion. Either figure would be a blow to the state's precariously balanced budget.

Governor Carey called the new pro jection a "very profound and disturbing reflection of the depressed state of our national and regional economy." He directed his Social Services Commissioner Philip Tola, to work with the state's county executives to "develop a completa and thorough range of legislative proposals" to counteract the rising welfare bills.

Upstate Factors Cited The Budget Division said that most of the overran was occurring opstate in tha 'home relief-singles" category of public assistance, which goes mainly to people living elone whose unemployment benefits have expired. Meanwhile, a federally floanced study by the Rand Corporation reported yesterday that New York City's welfare families ectually received cash and other services that lifted as many as 90 percent of them above the poverty level. [Page 25.]

Wife and Mother of Soviet MIG Pilot Appeal for His Re

By CHRISTOPHER S. WREN

MOSCOW, Sept. 28—The wife and the nother of a Soviet pilot who flew his jet fighter to Japan were brought forward. today by the Soviet authorities to plead for him to come home without fear of

At a news conference for Soviet and foreign reporters, Lyudmila Petrovna Belenko said she had been assured "at a sufficiently high level? that her husband, First Lieut. Viktor L Belenko, would be forgiven, "eveo if he had made a mistake." A Foreign Ministry spokesman present, Lev V. Krylov, added that "official guarantees have been given hy competent Soviet bodies."

Mrs. Belenko and her mother-in-law, Lyudmila Stepanovna Beleoko, said they sent a cablegram to President Ford 10 days ago asking him to return the pilot to his family.

Comments Are Widely Publicized

Lieutenant Belenko landed his MIG-25 fighter on the Japanese island of Hokkaido three weeks ago and, according to Japanese authorities, requested asylum in the United States. It was promptly granted by President Ford. The plane, believed by some to be the most advanced of its being dismantled by Japanese exkind, is being dismantled by Japanese ex-perts with American assistance.

The women's comments figured promi-oently in Soviet radio and television newscasts, injecting an emotional ele-ment into Moscow's campaign to get the plane and pilot back and presenting the United States with an implicit challenge to present Lieutenant Belenko publicly. He has not been heard from since he arrived in the United States oo Sept. 9.

George Bush, the Director of Central Intelligence, said in a television program in the United States on Sept. 19 that the defection was a "major intelligence bonanza" and that the debriefing of the pilot was "going well."
The incident has brought a chill to relations between Moscow and Tokyo, with repercussions for Washington. In a state-ment made public today, the Soviet Union warned Japan a few days ago that failure His wife, who is 25 years old, said they to return the plane promptly would affect were married five years and had been relations between the two countries. The Soviet version of the affair is that Lieutenant Belenko lost his bearings on a training flight and, after having landed in Hokkaido for lack of fuel, was kidnapped by the Japanese authorities with the collusion of Washington.

Today the two women stuck to this version as they read from prepared atatements and then answered questions. Both dabbed at their eyes with handkerchiefs. At one point Lieutenant Belenko awife fore the flight to Japan, she said, the pilot played with his son and read him fairy tales.

In their cablegram, sent from the Far East. A women said they had asked President Ford as "father of a family" to "underford as "father of a family" to "underford in the Soviet Far East. A dispatch from Tokyo, published Sept. 22 in The New York Times, quoted intelligence sources as having said that Lieuteoant Belenko had an unhappy marriage. In the news conference, his wife frequently referred to their 3½ year-old son, nicknamed Dima, for Dmitri. The day before the flight to Japan, she said, the pilot played with his son and read him fairy tales.

Wife Says Marriage Was Happy

The two women painted a portrait of Lieutenant Belenko as a "patriot" as well-as a devoted son and husband. They said he "had excellent marks at school," was a party member and had nurtured the hope of becoming a test pilot.

Congressional Conference Bars Export of Plutonium Equipment

By DAVID BURNHAM

WASHINGTON, Sept. 28—House and Senate conferees, in ooe of three Congressional moves on nuclear policy, today informally approved an amendment that would prohibit by law the export of equipment to extract plutonium from used uranium, Plutonium is the raw material for nuclear weapons.

Murphy Backed for Nuclear Agency

In a second action, six Senate members of the Joint Committee on Atomic Energy unanimously voted today to approve the committee's staff director, George F. Murphy, as a member of the Nuclear Regulatory Commission.

In hearings last week, lobbying groups opposed the appointment on the ground that Mr. Murphy's long association with the Joint Committee meant it would be the nomination.

Mr. Murphy, a registered Democrat, was recommended to the White House by Senator Howard H. Baker Jr., Republican of Tennessee, and is actively supported by Senator John O. Pastore, the Rhode Island Democrat who is chairman of the Joiot Committee.

Syrians Pressing Arafat to Shift Position on Lebanon

By JAMES F. CLARITY

DAMASCUS, Syria, Sept. 28—In addition to its military actions in Lebanoo, Syria has begun to step up political pressure on Yasir Arafat, the leader of the Palestine Liberation Organization, to accept Syrian intervention and to give active support to the new Lebanese Government of President Flier Sarkir ment of President Elias Sarkis.

The accelerated pressure was clearly reflected today in a long article in Al Baath, the newspaper of the governing Baath Party, headed by President Hafez al-Assad, calling for a change in leader-ship in the P.L.O. The Syrian pressure has also taken the form of arrests of scores of Palestinians living in Syria and of close surveillance of the activities of Palestinian leaders in Damascus.

Palestinian leaders here, while not ao outspoken as those in Beirut, expressed disappointment and discouragement over the Syrian actions and pressures since Syria sent occupation forces—15,000 troops and 500 tanks—into Lebanoo early in June.

400 Reported Arrested

In interviews, the Damascus-based Palestinians said that since May about 400 Palestinian nationals had been arrest-400 Palestinan nationals had been arrested in Syria and that about 100 were still in left, most of them charged with complicity in recent street bombings that killed and injured several civilians. Some of the bombs exploded in offices of the Baath Party. It was signed by a hitherto unheard of group, the Struggle Council of the P.L.O.

In defending Mr. Arafat, Palestinian leaders acknowledged that the Syrian intervection had weakened the P.L.O.

Israel's Arab population currently numbers about 450,000. From 1948, when the state of Israel was formed, until the March 30 protest, the Israeli Arabs were generally quiet and nonmilitant. But that is changing. Growing numbers of Israeli Arabs are fighting against what they term their "second-class" citizenship in Israel. The latest focus of their discontent oc-mending measures to curb the growth and influence of the country's Arab population.

Sympathy strikes for the Israeli Arabs were beld by Palestinian Arabs in Israeli-ccupied towns of the West Bank of the Jordan and in the Gaza Strip.

There were violent incidents, mainly involving clashes between Israeli security forces and stone-throwing bands of Arab youths in a number of towns, including Nablus, Hebron, Gaza and Tulkarm.

The Israeli-Arab protest, which took the form of a two-hour work stoppage by municipal employees in many communities in the Galilee, was in sharp contrast with one last March 30, which erupted into riots that left six Israeli-Arabs dead and socres injured.

Arabs dead and socres injured.

Mr. Koenig said that in two years, the israeli Arabs would constitute a majority in the Galilee region and that "there increase in the Galilee contains a threat to our very rule in the region."

He recommended a number of proposals to curb the growth and influence of Israeli's Arabs, including a decrease in state subsidies to large Arab families and other recommendations offensive to Israeli's Arabs. These have been disavowed by a number of Israeli leaders as contrary to official policy. But the disavowais have been regarded as inadequate by Israeli Arabs dead and soores injured. Any Turnabout on Rhodesia Plan Is Denied by Tanzania's President

DAR ES SALAAM, Tanzania, Sept. 28—
President Julius K. Nyerere of Tanzania strongly denied today that the "front-line" African presidents had agreed to detailed proposals for Rhodesian majority rule in talks with Secretary of State Heory A. Kissinger—proposals they later rejected in public.

On the contrary, he said, "every time Dr. Kissinger tried to mention details, I kent trying to out him.cff" on the ground to composition would retrain power for the minority. President Nyerere reiterated these points today.

He said that under the plan Mr. Smith himself could "easily" become the chairman of a council of state, which would have legislative powers, supervise the drafting of a constitution and appoint a subordinate council of ministers.

"At one time we were expecting Smith would not be these at all." President Nyerere reiterated these points today.

Japanese scientists have found that the chemicals cause cancer and genetic damage to humans who have been exposed to large amounts of the compounds.

The fate of the bill at the White House is uncertain since the Ford Administra-

try by prohibiting large companies from making joint bids on offshore Federal tracts believed to contain oil and gas, while requiring some bidding systems other than the cash-bonus method most commonly in use.

One of its most controversial features ordered the Federal Government to undertake an experimental program of ex-ploratory drilling in an effort to find out what mineral resources the offshore tracts contained.

Opponents of the measure, including the major oil companies, the Administra-tion and several representatives who spoke today, contended that this would "put the Government in the oil business" and delay rather than accelerate the development of new oil fields.

However, according to Representative Silvio Conte, Republican of Massachusetts, sending the bill back to committee represents a cave-in to the oil barons. Representative John M. Murphy, the Staten Island Democrat who was the floor manager of the bill, termed the measure "a sound and rational management system for the exploitation of our offshore energy resources." He said he would seek to revise the bill to delete provisions objectionable to the Adminis-tration, such as the Federal drilling pro-gram, and bring it back to the floor bethe E.P.A. being given discretion to per-mit limited production in about 1980. itva days remain, and its passage was PCB's are widely used as insulation in viewed as extremely doubtful.

West German Formula: Not Just Work, but Minimizing of Industrial Strite PHONE COLLECTOR

Special to The New York Times BONN, Sept. 28—The West German industrial machine works, but it is not a military colossus. It is, instead, a reflec-tion of a political and social consensus that may be unique in Western Europe.

Germans do not work all that much harder than anyone else, and they have more paid holidays, but the work they do is more effective because labor, management and government are not at each other's throats the way they so often are in France, Britain and Italy.

Here the head of seven million union-organized workers can agree with the head of the several score industrial employers' associations to keep wage in-creases below 6 percent, and the agreement sticks.

This society is built like a colonnade, each pillar closely linked to the next one. Union members sit on the boards of industry, government officials help steer huge companies like Volkswagen through troubled times and public opinion plays a constant controlling role through the press, through mass political parties and through frequent public-opinion polls.

Key Roles Behind Scenes

Whoever wins the general election Sun-day—Chancellor Helmnt Schmidt's Social Democrats or Helmut Kohl's Christian Democrats—those pillars will stand. Here are some of the people who play the key roles more or less behind the scenes in holding them steady.

Heinz-Oskar Vetter, 58 years old, chair-man of the Federation of German Labor Union in Düsseldorf presides over 7.4 million workers, organized in 16 industrywide unions. They own banks, insurance companies and the largest real-estate concern in the country. By law they hold half the seats on the boards of directors of the largest industries.

"For the past year," Mr. Vetter said,
"we have been engaged in a revolutionary we have with them," Dr. Schleyer said,
"have contributed to the stability and of the school whealth of the economy in recent years by a chance to make investments that will create new jobs. This fall and next spring will show if the other side has kept its part of the bargain."

Contributions by the Unions

When Chancellor Schmidt visited the with them," Dr. Schleyer said, "have contributed to the stability and health of the economy in recent years by showing a great deal of responsibility."

Karl-Otto Pöhl, 46, has a foot in both government and industry. As the chief monetary expert in the Finance Ministry, he has been a key figure in Mr. Schmidt's repeated decisions to revalue the mark, making it the strongest major European owns a fifth of its shares. After the president of the Federation of German Employers Associations, which has no equivalent in the United States. Dr. Schleyer is Mr. Vetter's opposite number at the bargaining table.

When Chancellor Schmidt visited the United States last July, Mr. Vetter and a heavyset, cigar-smoking industrialist. Dr. Hanns Martin Schleyer, 61, were in the plane with him. Dr. Schleyer is the president of the Federation of German Employers Associations, which has no equivalent in the United States. Dr. Schleyer is Mr. Vetter's connected number.

Social Democratic party, is a banker by profession. He sits on the Volkswagen loard because the federal Government owns a fifth of its shares. After the gave Mr. Vetter's workers half the seats company went hundreds of millions of owns a fifth of its shares. After the company went hundreds of millions of dollars into the red in 1974, he belped select a new general manager. Toni Schmücker, who moved it back into the black and made the decision to shift some back in the states. Rabbit production to the United States.

If the Christian Democrats win in Octot the bargaining table.

"We accepted a steady revaluation of the finance Ministry remarked."

"The labor unions, with all the conflicts the mark even though we knew it would friend in the Finance Ministry remarked.

Even if the opposition does not win appears certain to shave Mr. Schmidt's 46-seat majority in Parliament, and then Herbert Wehner, 70, will become an even more important figure. A lonely man, he is the Social Democrats' whip in Parliaon West German industrial boards, though it did not satisfy the unions because it leaves the power of breaking a deadlock with shareholders' nominees.

Without his influence, Helmut Schmidt and his predecessor, Willy Brandt, could neve bave risen to power since the Social they adopted middle-way social reformsm in 1959.

Almost a legend, Mr. Wehner is distrusted by many because he was a Com-munist until World War II. He has spent most of his later years regretting his error—"the error of thinking that as a Communist a man can improve the buman social condition."

Publisher With Big Impact Then there is Axel Caesar Springer, 64, a publisher who has become a symbol of resistance to West German compromise with the Communist states. with the Communist states.

"It was one of my blackest days," he said in a speech last June, "when the treaties with the Soviet bloc were signed. I am not a seeker of revenge. I am a many signed was a seeker of revenge. THE ROAD CAR. COMPARE

To find out just how good a road car Saab really is, we decided to have an independent testing company compare it with what we thought was the toughest competition around: a BMW 2002.

They ran both cars through a series of performance tests designed to measure those characteristics that make a car a true road car: a skid pad test to measure G-Force in cornering, a sialom course for handling, and, ol course, acceleration and braking tests.

The results confirmed what we expected As the chart shows, the Saab and BMW 2002 are quite a match. The Saab was at least an equal in every category. We weren't surprised, but a number of BMW owners

However, don't just take our word for it. There's only one way to find out how good a car really is. Drive it. We did. And look at what happened.

2 Political Parties Held To Raise Consciousness Of Some Ethnic Groups

STORRS, Conn. (UPI)—The American political party system has encouraged ethnic consciousness in citizens who are generations removed from their immigrant roots, University of Connecticut political scientists contends.

"American political leaders who fer-vently avow their belief in the melting pot during patriotic celebrations ignore it at election times," said Dr. Louis L. Gerson, head of the university's political Writing in the "Journal of Politics," Dr. Gerson said both major political parties had played up latent nationalistic feelings in an effort to win large numbers of imigrant votes since the 188m0's. Dur-ing the present election, the Democrats call their effort the "All American Council," while the Republicans call theirs "Heritage Groups."

He described the size of their potential audience by noting there were 30 million Americans in 1970 who spoke a language other than English as their first language. Dr. Gerson said there was little evidence the ethnic appeals affected foreign policy and said politicians, when presented with evidence that the ethnic ap-peal was not working, viewed it as "evidence of wrong appeals and the need to find new issues to bewitch the ethnics." He coocluded that ethnic nationalism was related to the winning of political power than it is "to the achievement of dignity, equality, respectability, and unhampered access to American values and one that gives you some choice. The Air-India 8-day London Theatre Tour.

We give you four theatre tickets. Three tickets to any plays you want to see. If the play's running and if there are tickets available, you've got it. (Only exceptions: no opera, ballet or Royal Shakespeare Company.)

How about that fourth ticket? It's to a performance at the exciting new National Theatre. And, as a bonus, Air-India also gives you a guided tour of this incredible new theatre complex.

How does all this stack up to other airlines' theatre tours? Well, some of them don't give you as many tickets. And some of them don't give you as much choice. In fact, some of them don't give you any choice at all.

An Air-India 8-day London Theatre Tour also gives you a great flight round-trip; 7 nights in a good hotel with private bath, an Avis car for three days (that's right, three days), transportation to your hotel from the airport and to the airport from your hoteland a bunch of extras.

We do all this for the same-or perhaps less-than the airlines that don't give you so much choice. Which makes the whole thing an easy choice, right?

The case against Mr. Schorr at CBS News began with his initial denial of having played a role in providing The Voice with the classified document. His copy of it was believed to have been the only one outside the Government.

preface to the published transcript of the House report.

According to bureau members, Mr. Schorr raised the question of how the document came into Mr. Latham's possession, thereby focusing suspicion on Miss Stahl. Bureau sources contended that Mr. Schorr allowed his colleagues to believe that Miss Stahl had removed the document from his desk and copied it for Mr. Latham and then admitted the following day that he had provided the copy to The Voice.

Asked about these charges in the loter-view with Mr. Wallace, Mr. Schorr dis-missed them as "a piece of office gossip" and "basically trivia."

He said he had acted from confusioo and had not dispelled the rumor "for a few tongue-tied hours" hecause he felt it might give an added layer of protection to his own source of the document.

Mr. Salant, in accepting the resignation, noted in his letter that Mr. Schorr was free to pursue full-time employment with another network without forfeiting his wage payments under the CBS contract.

He praised Mr. Schort for his journalistic achievements over a 23-year-career with the network, and concluded:

The prosecutors have also discovered that the F.B.I. agents in New York who carried out the hurgiaries against Mr. Machtinger and friend and relatives of other Weather fugitives sometimes placed illegal wiretaps on the telephone of their targets, and the F.B.I. sources said that the telephones belonging to Leonard Machtinger and to his parents, who live in the Bronx, had been tapped in that fashion.

Harry Mashtinger said at one point that friend confided in him that the hureau had tried to recruit the friend to inform on the family's activities. The friend said that he refused the offer. On another occasion, in what appeared to be a clumsy attempt to induce Leonard Machtinger to lead the F.B.L to his brother, an agent advised him in a telephone call that "something was going to happen and I should get in touch with Howard right away." Mr. Machtinger said be told the man that he did not know how to reach Howard and bung up.

An Apparent Coincidence

The location of the arrest appears to have been coincidental. Leonard Machtinger said that he had received no mail or telephone calls from Howard, or anything else that would indicate that his brother had returned to New York City. Leonard Machtinger arranged for his brother's release on a $2,500 cash bond, and the then-27-year-old fugitive moved in with his parents to await a hearing on the charges feeing him.

Eight days later, on the eve of his court hearing, Howard Machtinger became a

It was at that point, the F.B.I. source said, that members of the special squad, who earlier had burglarized Leonard Machtinger's epartment, decided to make yet another entry.

If it ever does move again, which I doubt, I'm sure we're going to try to back into the future." But there was more than rather heavyhanded ridicule in Mr. Carter's new quiver of political arrows. President's New TV Commercials Portray Him As Father Figure Who Inspires Quiet Confidence

WASHINGTON, Sept. 28-In the first batch of television commercials to be broadcast this fall for President Ford, he is portrayed as a dependable father figure who quietly inspires feelings of screnity in his family, his official circle and the country at large.

The new commercials represent a striking departure from the approach taken in the Ford television spots that were shown during the President's various primary tussles with Ronald Reagan last spring. In those, Mr. Ford was always the President, a solemn figure who stayed buttoned up, figuratively, as well as sartorially. In the rare in-stances when he was shown speaking, it was always in an oratorical mode on high state occasions. Never did he speak conversationally.

In his new commercials, the President shows up in an open-neck shirt, reminiscing about his children or chatting in the same calm and fatherly tones about running the Government, instead of being stressed at every instance, the White House environment is sometimes understated.

Focus is an the Man

A detail of decorative molding in one commercial suggests that the conversa-tion is taking place in the Oval Office. In another, where the President is shown sitting outdoors, a rose in a corner of the screen hints that the setting is probably not just any rose garden. But in both instances, the focus is more on the man than the institution he em-

With the homey new approach, Mr.

Ford joins battle in the imagery war with Jimmy Carter on ground that the Democratic nominee has occupied almost exclusively since the start of the year, when the first Carter commercials, used in the early primary states, showed him chatting smiably, in a variety of open-neck shirts, about his family and views.

In Mr. Ford's case, the emphasis on family as a vehicle for portraying character is so pronounced that the President almost appears to he riding the coattails of his attractive children and wife. A new Ford campaign poster now shows Mrs. Ford in the foreground beside her husband, and a new five-minute commercial takes as its organ-izing theme the thought that "sometimes a man's family can say a lot about

Sons Talk About Father

Steven, Jack and Michael Ford are then shown speaking about their fa-ther. In each case, cut in with the film of the son are some proudly paternal comments from Mr. Ford in the garden setting. Finally, Susan Ford is shown hugging her father from in back and an amouncer pronounces the Fords "a close, loving American family."

Of the comments by the three sons, perhaps the most striking and signifi-cant in terms of the campaign comes from the eldest, Michael, a divinity student who has received less press attention than his siblings.

He talks about the place of religious values in his family's life and declares his parents to be "very devout." The President then speaks of the satisfaction he derives from his son's commitment to the ministry.

The effect of this interlude in the commercial is to balance out the attention that has been paid in the campaign to Mr. Carter's religious views. Two different Carter commercials show the candidate in what appears to be the setting of a pulpit, but his words are secular and the subject of religion is never raised in the Carter advertising.

The second of the five-minute Ford commercials that started showing on network relevision this week again tries to portray the President's character and values in a comforting context. In this case, the focus is on his qualities as a leader.

Making a potentially defleate point for a Republican candidate, the commercial seeks to remind viewers of the dismal situation the country was in when Mr. Ford came to office.

Reminder of Watergate

In asserting that be has "worked to restore the honor of the White House," the commercial reminds viewers of the Watergate affair without using the word. In further declaring that Mr. Ford's "quiet style of leadership" has ended "a decade of tension between the American people and their Presidents," the commercial deftly suggests that the problems that arose in the Aministration of Mr. Ford's unmentioned ministration of Mr. Ford's unmentioned predecessor could be traced back to the Democratic Administration that

We've certainly created in the Ford

Administration a nonimperial Presidency," Mr. Ford himself declares,
The Ford campaign is given a musical elaboration in the first 60-second spot the Ford forces have shown on televi-sion. The commercial starts out with appealing scenes of America at work and play and an upbeat jingle of the "There's a change that's come over America," the lync begins, "a change that's great to see." that's great to see. . .

. 'Peace With Freedom'

The President is shown in the Oval Office and then a baby appears in a stroller. "Peace with freedom," an announcer says over the jingle's final chords. "Is there anything more important that that?"

The commercials are the work of the President's new advertising consultants, John Deardourff and Douglas Bai-ley, who were not hired until the day of Mr. Ford's nomination last month.

The effort to convey a sense of good feeling about the country and its Government obviously clashes with a main theme of the Carter advertising: the assertion that standards of morality and competence are lower in Washington than they are in the country as a whole, that trust has yet to be res-tored. Thus, in terms of their advertising, hoth campaigns seem to see trust as the main issue.

The first Carter commercials were sbown on network television more than

Connally Calls Carter Remarks on Johnson an 'Insult'

By CHRISTOPHER LYDON Special to The New York Times

WASHINGTON, Sept. 28-Robert S. Strauss, the Democratic party chairman, says that John B. Connelly will play Jimmy Carter's outburst against the late Lyndon B. Johnson (whom the Democratic Presidential nominee accused in Playboy magazine of "lying cheating and dis-Campaign torting the truth") the way Notes Jascha Heifetz plays a Stradivarius, and sure enough, Mr. Connally is tuning up.

"I am no longer a member of President Johnson's party," Mr. Coonally, the former Governor and former Democrat, told his fellow Texans over the weekend, "but my admiration and affection for him were not buried in the grave over which I delivered the eulogy at Johnson City, I am deeply offended by this gratuitous insult."

The 1976 remake of Mr. Connally's 1972 Democrats for Nixon is called Texans for Ford, and it is led by Frank C. Erwin Jr., longtime chairman of the Regents of the University of Texas, a mighty political establishment in itself.
"As far as I am concerned," Mr. Erwin announced, "Jimmy Carter has forfeited all right to the support of any John-son Democrats in Texas."

son Democrats in Texas."

Mr. Carter had been talking to Playboy about the Johnson policy in Vietnam, but Mr. Erwin unsubtly turned the subject, saying: "The black and brown people of Texas never had a better friend then Lyndon Johnson, and if they have an ource of received." if they have an ounce of gratitude in them they will demand a retraction and apology for Carter's outrageous state-

Sam Houston Johnson, who made some unflattering observations in his book, "My Brother Lyndon," was none-theless upset that Mr. Carter was joining in. When Playboy interviewed the property of the control of the contro him years ago, Mr. Johnson recalled pointedly, the magazine gave him a chance to check the transcript for misof carrying Texas he lost it there," he

George Christian, once press secretary for both President Johnson and Governor Connally, has not joined Texans for Ford but sees Mr. Carter

"The reaction on Carter now is very, very negative," Mr. Christian commented in a telephone interview today. "He started way ahead, but that's all vanished."

Doris Kearns, the Johnson hiographer who has done character sketches of Mr. Carter and Mr. Ford for the forthcoming issue of The Ladies' Home Journal, recalled today that Mr. Carter spoke to her (as to Playboy) about adultery and lust. She never supposed it was the beadline stuff it has become. To lose several weeks laughing over lust is just sad," she commented.

In her interview, as in Playboy's, the discussion began with a question whether Mr. Carter imposed his personal moral code on others. Miss Kearns offered extramarital sex as an example. Mr. Carter's short answer was no, but the real problem, he said, was not sex or extramarital sex but "the battle against lust," as Miss Kearns remembered his phrase.

"I got the feeling," she said, "that the reason he was bringing it up was not so much to say, 'I'm better' or 'I'm one of the boys' either. I thought he was saying, 'I have these problems: derogating an opponent, lusting after a woman, and I have to ask God's forgiveness, and it's hard. The hard part giveness, and it's hard. The bard part is telling God you did these things." The importance of Mr. Carter's religion, it seems to Miss Kearns, is being exaggerated in political discussion and neglected in personal analyses.

"I came away realizing, as I hadn't realized before, how deep the religious beliefs go," she said. "When God is your judge and the Bible is your moral code, you really do bave different braces the Democratic tradition of Franklin D. Roosevelt, Harry S. Truman and John F. Kennedy, hut he is keeping his distance from those Presidents' men, to the profound distress of many old professionals here,

"He's still treating Washington like a leper colony," said one seething member of the "over the hill gang." Clark Clifford, the lawyer and Truman strategist, was told that Mr. Carter would call him down to Plains, Ga., for predebate advice, but the phone has not rung yet. John Kenneth Galbraith, the economist and New Frontiersman, is said to have received a mimeographed re-sponse from Atlanta headquarters when he wrote to offer help. Arthur Schlesinger Jr., the historian of the Roosevelt and Kennedy Presidencies, finds himself utterly uninvolved in a national campaign for the first time since 1928, "The possibility can no looger be excluded that Carter may lose the election," Mr. Schlesinger says, without any show of remorse.

Alabama politicians consider it no small matter that Paul (Bear) Bryant, the legendary football coach at the University of Alabama, endorsed President versity of Alabama, endorsed President Ford in Mobile over the weekend. It may only mean that for Mr. Bryant, a Democrat who campaigned for Gov. George C. Wallace's re-election in 1974, the bonds among football men like himself and Mr. Ford are stronger than partisanship. It may reflect some lobbying by Secretary of Health, Education and Welfare F. David Mathews, on leave but still president of the University of Alabama. But it may also be a ty of Alabama. But it may also be a signal from Governor Wallace that he is not entirely reconciled to the man who beat him for the Democratic Presidential nomination. Mr. Wallace showed up to greet Mr. Ford in Alabama on Saturday. He made it clear he was not endorsing the Republican but he introduced Bear Bryant with feeling "Tin only Governor because Bear Bryaot didn't run against me,"

The average Medicaid benefit included $914 in ambulatory services, representing visits to physicians, clinics and dentists and such costs as drugs and eyeglasses. It also included $692 for hospitalization—34.8 percent of the sampled cases had bospital care, and for them this averaged $1,990.

Virtually every welfare family participated in the food stamp program. The average bouns they received for buying food stamps was put at $501.

The overall average cited only $128 for day care. This was a benefit received by only 8.8 percent of the families, but it meant an average of $1,449.

It meant an average of $1,449.

The study also showed some outside income—an average of $197 in earnings and $263 in other nonwelfare receipts such as Social Security, unemployment insurance, disability payments, help from relatives and dependency allotments. Only 7.9 percent had earnings—and for them, these averaged $2,492 in the year.

The Rand researchers observed that the higher the total income from various benefits, "the more attractive it may become to substitute leisure for work." The overall system they said, "may dampen work inceotives and increase incentives for maintaining a female-headed household."

How One Mother Makes Do. Or Doesn't Make Do, on Welfare

Elisa Fuentes is a welfare mother with three daughters. She benefits hy Medicaid help every other week for her baby. She has been buying food stamps, but not right now because welfare records apparently got snarled when she moved from the Bronx to East Har-

The living's not easy for the mother behind the cold overall statistics of welfare, including a new Rand Corpora-tion study yesterday that reported that combined cash and services let most welfare families bere meet "minimal welfare families bere meet "minimal household requirements."

If she were getting ber full welfare check, Mrs. Fuentes would average about $8.60 a day in cash for food, clothing and other convent expenses for herself and the three children.

Mrs. Fuentes said she coped by skipping most breakfasts. The two older girls, Sonia, 12, and Maria, 10, get lunch at school. For other lunches and supper, the menu is generally rice and beans, Mr. Fuentes said—meet, like pork chops, available twice a week, unless chicken goes down to 45 cents a pound on sale.

a floor fan, a radio-phonograph, a 14inch television.

Mrs. Fuentes, who became 31 years old last Jan. 14, was born in Puerto Rico, She has a seventh-grade education. She said she had been working in a hrassiere factory in Rio Grande,
P. R., at $90 a week until "I saw my friends come back from New York to visit in Puerto Rico, and how well they visit in Puerto Rico, and how well they looked, and they told me there were good jobs."

So she came to New York eight years ago, and for two years, she said, she worked as a packer getting $140 a week until her factory closed. She got unemployment insurance of $42 a week along with welfare supplements for ber two daughters then.

She has been on welfare since August 15, 1973. She said she had separated from her husband, and welfare investigators were trying to find him to help get child support.

Mrs. Fuentes, 5 feet tall and reed-thin, is "a very quiet, accepting per-son," as Mrs. Dorothy Andrews, assist-ant director of the Community Service Avenue, at 106th Street put it.

Mrs. Fuentes had been referred to the project by the East End welfare center last Sept. 13 when she was unble to a project by the 122 (2 constitution). ahle to pay a sudden $123.43 Consolidated Edison Company bill

It turned out this was a cumulativa bill for five months that arrived after no utility bills were received from the time Mrs. Fuentes moved from the Bronx. The welfare center then agreed to pay the hill, but it said it would recoup by deducting $10.30 from each semimonthly check.

Mrs. Fuentes receives $5,304 a year, in a semimonthly check of $204—$129 as a hasic grant, $75 as semimonthly rent. She was already having $20.40 deducted from each check to make up for the unrecovered Bronx rent security deposit.

As a welfare recipient, Mrs. Fuentes is entitled to stretch her food money by huying $83 in food stamps twice a mooth, paying $47.50. This mooth she said she did not get her purchase authorization, so she used her first semi-monthly check's rent money for food and clothing and paid the full $150 moothly rent from the second check.

with this leaving her only $23.30, the Access project said yesterday it would give her food money a week at a time from the Community Service Society's funds to help her catch up.

In addition, National Review was paid $5,051 for the rental of its mailing lists.

Leonard Saffir, the Buckley campaign manager, said he saw no conflict of interest in the Buckley campaign's contracting with the Buckley family's private enterprises. "They have the best conservative mailing lists in town," said Mr. Saffir of the magazine and Ultra Arts.

Results From Mailings

The prodigious cost of tha mailings is evident in the financial reports. In August, for example, at least $72,000 was 60 percent on the dollar, according to spent for mailings around the country.

Buckley campaign aides said that about half the 22,322 individual contributors to the campaign as of late August were outdot-staters. The proportion was even larger in the case of contributors of $100 or more whose names and addresses are listed in the financial reports filed with the Secretary of the Senate.

In the three quarterly reports filed so far for this year, 519 of 999 contributors of $100 or more are out-of-staters. POLICE KILL MOTHER OF 4: SELF-DEFENSE IS ALLEGED

The mother of four small children wa shot and killed on the Lower East Side yesterday morning by a police officer who said that she had pointed a gun at him and had pulled the trigger several times, but that the weapon had misfired.

The police officer, Sal Martellaro, was checking a report of a woman chasing a man with a gun in the vicinity of the La Guardia Houses, a project near the scene of the shooting, which was at the corner of Pike and Madison Streets.

The dead woman was identified as 26-year-old Blanca Lee, who fived in the bousing project with three sons and a daughter, ranging in age from 3 to 9

An employee of the housing project said that Mrs. Lee, who reportedly was divorced, had complained to the management on Monday that other tenants were throwing refuse out of windows.

The dead woman's gun contained five bullets and ballistic tests were under way to see if it had been fired or was capable of being fired.

The police began an investigation into the shooting, which occurred at 7:40 A.M. when the woman reportedly was en route home from a social club. An autopsy was expected to determine whether she was intoxicated at the time.

Estate Will Auction Hughes Movie Rights

LOS ANGELES, Sept. 28 (UPI)—The Howard R. Hughes estate will anction off the rights to three of the late billionaire's movies, including "The Outlaw," for which Mr. Hughes designed a special brassiere for Jane Russell.

Richard Gano, a Hughes cousin and temporary administrator of his Califor-ma assets, yesterday announced that the estate would also auction the rights to "The Conqueror" and "Jet Pilot." "The Outlaw," which introduced and made a star of Miss Russell, was regarded as a racy film when it was re-leased in 1943. "The Conqueror" starred John Wayne and Susan Hay-ward and "Jet Pilot" featured Mr. Wayne and Janet Leigh.

The sale includes the films' exhibition, remake, sequel, television, stage, and publication rights, along with neg-atives, positive prints, scripts and ad-vertising material.

Clamma Dale Sing Way to Top And Seeks Out New Challenges

Sitting in her upper West Side apartment, accepting coogratula-tory telephone calls and bouquets of roses testifying to her Broadway Success as Bess in "Porgy and Bess," Clamma Dale remembered a crucial day in the eighth grade in her all-black junior high school in Chester, Pa.

"The students were singing and the teacher interrupted to say. There's a strange voice in the class," recalled Miss Dale, "She was determined to find out who owned that voice." At the teacher's request, each child sang individually. "Finally she cama to me."

It was the first of many times that the extraordinary Clamma

(as in "drama") Dale bas beeo discovered. A voice that a teacher admired in a vocally untrained teen-ager, after years of study, is now exciting audiences, critics and musicians. At 28 years of age, Miss Dale, a Naumburg Foundation award winner, a member of the New York City Opera, and now a Broadway star, is on the verge of a major career as an opera singer and dramatic actress — and she knows it.

Talking about operas that she would like to sing, plays she would like to ect in, and the possibility of a movie career—she is strikingly heautiful as well as talented—she said, "I would like to do anything that is artistic, that is of the quality that deserves me. I will not dn junk. My experieoce on stage is just as important for me as it is Such confidence and seriousness of purpose began even hefore she was a teen-ager. "I don't think I've been a naïve person—ever," she said. "I didn't grow up in an at-mosphere that allowed thet. I was considered an outstanding child.

but being bright was not enough —at least not for a black girl in Chester. "You bad to be bright and something special."

Her father, a jazz musician (ha died five years ago), gave her, she said, a sense of pride and direction. "He always worked with me on the premise that you don't have time to waste. We were of that Martin Luther King era: If you're going to be a street sweeper, then be the best street sweeper." And if you're going to be an opera singer, be the best opera singer. Actually her first musical love was the clarinet (she also plays the piano, cello, saxophone and guitar). "My father taught me that music was interpretation. Wheo I played the clarinet, he always asked what it felt like: Was I thinking of a flower, a fly, hate,

At 14, Miss Dale began studying voice, with no knowledge of opera singers of the past. 'In my year-book, someone wrote, 'I hope you hecome as great a star as Maria Callas.' I didn't know who she

[Miss Callas] was."

She went to Philadelphia's Settlement Music School and then to Juilliard. Looking back on her early days in New York, she said. "I was fearless. At 18, I felt I could accomplish anything I wanted to. I still dn."

Decries Lowering Standards

Juilliard and, in fact, all of her institutional education, she marks down as a disappointment. For one thing, she said, they taught her nothing about other arts, and, more particularly, nothing about acting, "Opera is drama," she said. "Without drama, it might as well be a concert." Then she reconsidered her words, "Even in a concert, every song has a poetic state-

She is extremely critical of trabave a lovely voice, you don't have to look the part or act well. Most people don't have standards that are high enough."

Miss Dale feels that she began broadening herself after she left Juilliard. To support herself as a singer, she taught music to firstgraders in Brooklyn, and music, painting and poetry (everything from Stevie Wonder to Goethe and Schiller) to prison inmates on Riker's Island.

Her success dates from June 1975, when she anditioned for the New York City Opera. Immediately after Miss Dale finished singing, an aide to Julius Rudel, head of the City Opera, asked, "Miss Dale, are you free in the fall?" Last fall the soprano made her debut as Antonia in "Tales of Hoffmann," and, though an unknown, received e standing ovation.

Two Different Treatments

In 1974, she had played Bess in a Los Angeles Civic Light Opera production of "Porgy and Bess." which, to her dissatisfaction, treated the opera as if it were merely a musical. The current "Porgy and Bess" et the Uris Theater—she is one of three singers who rotate as Bess—to her satisfaction, is all opera. The recitatives and all the music have been restored. For Miss Dale, this only makes the opera more dramatic.

Though she is not trained as an actress, she approached the role with an actress's method, trying to understand Catfish Row as well as the wanton Bess. "You must have sympathy with what these people are about," she asserted.
"You must know why Gershwin put in street cries, what the fabric of the community is like. This was once a very lovely mansion. Now it's inhabited by poor black people. Bess is a threat to that society. It's e love-hate relationship. Tha women admire her for her freedom. At the same time, they hate her because she can turn their menon. What makes ber sensual is not the way she walks. It's her character that makes her sexy."

The Stanislavsky Method Playing Bess, Miss Dale makes use of her own life, particularly one recent personal experience that caused her anguish. "I meditated on my pain. Finally, I was grateful for it because it got me in touch with the last scene on Catfish Row. That's the same pain that Bess would feel. Whatever she is doing; it is, she insisted, a total commitment. Miss Dale, who is single, has devoted the last 10 years to her career. Speaking of the audience, she said: 'I honestly give them me. Here I am-100 percent every performance.

Looking ahead to her future, she talked about the opera roles she wanted to play: Mimi in "La Boheme," Desdemona in "Otello," Marguerite in "Faust." She said confidently, "I'm going to be sioging major operas in major producrions because people want me to do them."

She would also like to act on stage—Nora in "A Doll's House" ("That's e role absolutely made for me in heaven") and Blanche Du Bois in "A Streetcar Named Desire." "Bess is in some ways similar to Blanche," she said, adding that were she to play Blanche, "I would have to contend with becoming white. Black women are coming white. Black women are not Southern belles." Clearly, Miss Dale is setting no limits on her "mushrooming" career. "There's no rush," she said, and added joyfully, "I'm going to be here e long time!"

He had heen unavailable for comment Monday, when the publisher's decisinn was first made public.

Mr. Donald said that after reading an essay hy Mrs. Trilling that was to he included in the book, he had felt it would be "improper for us to publish it hecause it contained personal attacks on one of comments." our authors."

The 69-year-old Miss Hellman

said in a statement:
"I have never seen or heard the passages that Little Brown chiected to. Nor did I know anything about their conversations with Mrs. Trilling until two weeks after they took place.

"As a matter of record," the statement went on, "Mrs. Trilling told me last summer that she intended to answer 'Scoundrel Time. and Garry Wills, who wrote the introduction. Mrs. Trilling will, of course, testify that I immediately agreed that she must print anything, anywhere and st any time that is the truth."

Although no one connected with the squabble would comment on the nature of Mrs. Trilling's passages, sources familiar with the dispute said the passages were in reply to Miss Hellmao's critical references to Mrs. Trilling and her late hushand, Lionel, an internationally known literary critic, in 'Scoundrel Time," her memoir of the McCarthy period of the 1950's.

The book, a current best-seller, was also published by Little Brown. The Boston-based house is the publisher of several other works by Miss Hellman, including "An Unfinished Woman, "Pentimento," and "The Collected Plsys."

Miss Hellman is one of our leading successful authors," said Arthur Thornhill, president of Little Brown, yesterday. "She's not one of the big so-called money-makers, but she's up there where we enjoy the revenue."

Passages Submitted Later According to Mr. Donald, the editor at Little Brown, the passages critical of Miss Heliman were contained in an essay called were contained in an essay called "Liberal Anti-Communism Revisited" that Mrs. Trilling submitted for her untitled book of essays and commentary shortly after Labor Day, after most of her manuscript had already been edited and approved.

"I was told that it contained a hysterical personal attack on me," Miss Hellman said. "This is deeply Duzzling to me. Diana and I are puzzling to me. Diana and I are old friends, and we spent the summer on the same island— Martha's Vineyard. Our houses were within a mile of each other, and she came a number of times for dinner and lunches. I thought everything had been straightened

"Scoundrel Time" came out. In the book, Miss Hellman criticized the favorable attitude of Professor Trilling toward Whittaker Chamber, the chief accuser of Alger Hiss in a case that was a liberal cause célèbre during the Red hunts of the 1950's. Miss Hellman also said in the book that she asked herself "how Diana and Lionel Trilling, old, respected friends, could have come out of the same age and time with uch different political and social views from my

Mrs. Trilling called the publishers' action "censorship," and said that her contract had been canceled because she had refused to delete four passages about Miss Hellman. "I agreed to clarify one," she said, "but I would not change the other three."

She said that she did not plan legal action for the alleged breach of contract, but that she did not plan to return the advance pay-ment that Little Brown had made "The telephone has been ringing all murning with publishers calling me to ask if they can publish the manuscript," Mrs. Trilling said. "It's a very publishable manuscript, and I'm sure I will have no trouble getting it into print."

Director George Stevens' vistas are but one of the glories of 'America At The Movies', so diverse and perennially exciting are the riches from which it draws. .- Molly Haskell, Village Voice

'America At The Movies' is a dandy.

Powerful, funny, moving segments from the best of American cinema. -Mary McGeachy, NBC News

More than a very entertaining movie. Through its film stars, it offers a special insight into our people and country. - Harold Clurman, The Nation

The selection, presentation and pacing of the 92 scenes from 83 movies is excellent. It is exhilarating to have demonstrated by the nearly two hours of compelling entertainment that our film heritage is so diverse, vigorous and audacious.

-Joseph Gelmis, Newsday

Fascinating and fun. -Martin Mitchell, After Dark

A glowing tribute to the dream that is America and a marveious opportunity to see, once again, some classic scenes from movies that were movies and stars that truly glittered.

Presumably it was Igor Moiseyev who started it all when, before World War II, he founded his celebrated Moiseyev Folk Ensemble in Soviet Russia. Since, the theatrical possibili-ties of folklore, both in song and dance, have been thoroughly explored. Our latest folklorist visitor opeoed a week's engagement Monday night at the Palace Theater and is called "Siamsa," The National Folk Theater of Ireland. It is as beguiling as a troupe of emerald-green leprechauns emerging unexpectedly out of a Celtic mist.

The troupe was formed in 1968 hy a Catholic priest, Pat Ahern, who halls from a farm in North Kerry, Father Ahern was obviously concerned that some of the folk traditions, specifically the Celtic traditions, of Ireland were in danger of being forgotteo and, there-fore, lost. Slowly the present company was built up. It now has a cast of just under 30, with ao age span of 9 to 68. That age span is migbtily important, for what Father Ahern is attempting bere is to give the total impression of a small Celtic village en fête, as it were, the audieoce having been invited to done by to drop by.

The word "siamsa" is seemingly intranslatable from Celtic, but it appears to denote an evening's visiting at a frieod's house, a time for warmth and celebration. And this is precisely what the show is.

The dance traditions of Ireland can really be summed up in one word the jig. And if that is two words, that is merely because it is an Irishism. Yet the jig is a much more complex dance form than is generally recognized, and although its patterns are formal enough, its individual variations can be enough, its individual variations can be infinite. It is a dance form with something of the variety, if a very different emotional coloring, of Spanish flamenco. These Irish dancers, ranging from the old to the young, are absointely superb.

There are old instruments, old songs, aod a spirit of such warmth and geneality that it just made me want to catch the next plane back to Dublin. It is an absolutely delightful show, simple, unpreteotious and yet totally bonest in its rustic charms. All Irishmen should flock to this simple pride of Erin, and anyone worth knowing is at the very least an bonorary Irishman.

The Cullums Try Something Old

By ANNA KISSELGOFF

John Cullum is an actor and the star "Shenandoah." Emily Frankel is a dancer and choreographer. They are married to each other and are now presenting an evening io the theater that attempts its own marriage of danca and drama.

"Kings," their three-part program, opened Monday night at the Alvin Theater and will be performed again every Monday evening through Oct. 18. The project is ambitious—a treatment of Greek myth through three independent one-act works.

The first part is "Oedipus," really a coodensed adaptation of Sophocles' "Oedipus Rex" by Mr. Culium, that has been directed by Miss Frankel, It is not so much a playlet as a closeup of a crucial episode in the original drama,

The second piece is "Medea," a dance work that Norman Walker choreographed for Miss Frankel last summer at the Jacob's Pillow Dance Festival. After one drama and one dance, the stars of the show join forces in the third work, "Theseus & Hippolyta," in which Miss Frankel dances to Mr.

Cullum's acting.

Devoting a whole evening to adaptations of Greek myth is an imusual concept at this time, but its creators have not really lived up to their ambitions. Essentially, they are story-tellers, and if they have aimed to retell the familiar material in anything but a straightforward manner, this is not apparent. What is missing is the extra and original dimension that can give a classic a new interpretation.

Perhaps the clue to the Cullums' approach lies in the fact that they based their own view of Theseus and Hippolyta on Mary Renault's historical novel,
"The Bull from the Sea." Misa Renault's popularized versions of Greek myth have been highly praised, and the Cul-lums may merely be attempting to offer a popularized view of Greek myth in the theater.

Certainly, they do not probe very deeply. "Oedipus" comes closest to seeking out the universal symbolism that these myths can provide through Mr. Cullum's self-questiooing homilies in the title role. Unfortunately, the chorus, drawn from the cast of "Shenandoah," does oot bave the ability for classical acting that Mr. Cullum demonstrates

As for "Medea," its staging is impressive, but Miss Frankel is so out of condition that it is difficult to tell whether the choreography is really weak or is blurred by ber undefined movements. David Anderson had the thankless role of Jason. In "Theseus & Hippolyta," Mr. Cullum's Theseus does all the talking, recalling his love affair with the Amazon queen, portrayed silently with mermaid charm by Miss Frankel. There are moments of feeling, but they are few.

Monday evening at Environ, an 11thfloor loft oo Broadway, a trio consisting of a violinist, a pianist and a drummer made some of the most intense and spellbinding music this reviewer has heard this year. The abilities of the musicians had more to do with the music's success than the instrumentation, of course, Richard Abrams, the pianist, bas been in the forefroot of jazz activity in Chicago for 10 years, although his exposure here has only recently begun to catch up with his im-posing reputation. Jerome Cooper, the drummer, has been associated with Mr. Jenkins in the Revolutionary Ensemble.

Only a firm, confident drummer with exemplary control of dynamics could have underpinned the music of Mr. Abrams and Mr. Jenkins without obliterating its nuances, and Mr. Cooper was an excellent choice. He also contributed a jauoty opening theme that launched a series of interestingly developmental solos.

Mr. Abrams foraged up and down the keyboard voraciously, manipulating shifting densities, now thick and crashing, oow delicate, almost rtansparent. Last night's excitement followed Sal Bando's leadoff homer off Dennis Leonard in the sixth, making the score S-3. Leonard's next pitch hit Baylor on the back of the shoulder.

Baylor and Bill Haller, the plate umpire, started for the mound-Haller to issue a warning to Leonard, because he deemed the pitch deliberate, and Baylor to take things into his own hands, for the same reason.

As soon as Haller realized what Bay-lor had in mind, he tried to head him off, only to be flung aside. But that was enough of a delay to let some of the speedy A's from the dugout beat Baylor and the other Royals to Leonard. In a moment, there was a tangle of about 60 uniformed figures; a few fighters and a lot of peacemakers, and the most excitable of them appeared to be Claudell Washington.

Leonard, struck once, managed to get fairly secure at the bottom of the pile, but Cookie Rojas, the Royals's second baseman, suffered a facial cut. Baylor was the only one ejected from the game by the umpires, but Leonard wasremoved by his manager, Whitey Her-

Off-duty police officers, protesting new work schedules and the city's failure to give them an awarded pay raise demonstrating outside Yankee Stadium last night before the start of the Ali-Norton title bout.

Unruly Mob Mars Scene Before Gates

By STEVE CADY

As one security man at last night's title fight in Yankee Stadium put it, "The off-duty cops picked a hell of a time to demonstrate.

This was at 8:30, two hours before Muhammad Ali climbed into the ring to defend his heavyweight crown against Ken Norton. An unruly mob outside the Stadium had already tried to storm one gate, and a management executive was saying, "Every hoodlum in the city is up here tonight."

Even Ali had trouble getting into the renovated Stadium, rebuilt by the city at a cost of $100 million. Shortly before 9:30, a spokesman for Madison Square. Garden, co-promoter of the fight, announced that the champion's car had been blocked by a gang of youths. He finally got into the build-ing about five minutes later,

With 1,000 off-duty New York City policemen shouting, blowing whistles, banging drums and blocking traffic, in ministration, crowds outside the Stadram that otherwise might have been restrained tended to get unruly. Limou-sines were rocked, and a number of celebrities were pummeled as they made their way toward the special entrance reserved for them. Spectators inside the Stadium, oc-cupying seats that cost from $25 to $200, complained about the apparent reluctance of 1,000 uniformed police-men on duty to interfere with their off-duty colleagues.

"It created a created a lot of confusion," said Rafael Buschaglia, a retired Puerto Rican government official who flew here from San Juan Monday with his son, Carlos. "Some people thought it was using hinoculars.

Up in the peanut gallery, near the top of the Stadium's upper deck, 69year-old Jimmy Thomas of Newark needed binoculars even more. From the $25 seats there, the fighters in the ring, situated over second base, looked like windup toya on a living-room

At least one gate had to be closed, harricaded by a garage-type door that was rolled down, to prevent gate-crashers from breaking through. Earlier, celebrities such as Joe DiMaggio

At Yankee Stadium workmen were laying a plywood floor on real estate hallowed through the summer by the spikes of Mickey Rivers, Graig Nettles and Thurman Munson, then setting up funeral-parlor chairs around a ring already pitched on the infield. Come evening, those chairs would support the bottoms of devotees of the Sweet Science who were paying $200 each to see for themselves whether Ken. fight of any description in the rebuilt stadium, it was Ali's 16th defense of his crown, the seventh of his second administration as champion, the 20th title fight of his career, and the first outdoor match of heavyweights in New York since Floyd Patterson flattened Ingernar Johannson in the Polo Grounds

June 20, 1960. In the Essex House in midtown, Mike Burke was saying that he expected a crowd of about 40,000 to disgorge approximately $3.5 million at the box office, making this the richest "live" gate for boxing since James Figg, the first heavyweight champion, began swatting profiles for profit two and a half centuries ago. Burke, the president of Madison Square Garden, predicted that ancillary income, mostly from closed-circuit television, would bring the total revenue to $8 million or so, which would mean about $6.5 million for Ali. Up to his first encounter with Ali in 1973, Norton's biggest purse was $7,500. He collected $50,000 for giving Ali a whipping and a broken jaw. Later that year he earned $250,000 losing a split decision in their second fight. For their third tryst last night, he expected to get $1.5 million, proving that persistence pays off, if it proves anything.

The Clerk of Scales

While Burke was talking for the promotion, something like 800 parishioners were clawing their way into a room called Casino in the Park, which might accommodate 500 in reasonable comfort. They were there to witness the most meaningless ritual in boxing, the weigh-in of combatants in a division that has no maximum weight limit. The ceremony was scheduled for 11 A.M. Half an bour after that time neither fighter had shown up and the Garden's John Condon was telling the crowd that Norton's chanffeur had got lost but the challenger was now headed in the right direction. It turned out later that Don Johnson, the driver, knows his way around New York as surely as Norton knows his around a ring. From the Tuscany Hotel on 39th Street, he had driven Norton downtown to the boxing commission well as any commissioner we have had." Harry Markson, the Garden's promoter emeritus, shook his head. "Gen. John Phelan was my man," he said, "al-though it took him a while to learn which side of that sliding indicator on the balance arm to read. Sound man, Gen. Phelan. Once he made the sensible ruling that no bout in New York involving the heavyweight champion could be billed as an exhibition because, with no overweight match possible, the champion's title was on the line every time he got in the ring. Soon after that Joe Louis was booked for an exhibition in Buffalo and somebody asked the General how come. That's when Phelan discovered Buffalo was in New

"I have never been more confident," Bob Biron, Norton's proprietor, was telling a friend. "I guarantee this will be no Caracas" — where a nervous Norton was knocked out by George Foreman in the second round. "Ken is psyched up and really ready."

The challenger's demeanor seemed to support this. Stepping off the scale, he strolled over to a battery of microphones looking altogether at ease. His hands were thrust casually in the pockets of his royal blue dressing gown and his mustache curled up in a smile. He laughed when somebody asked how he thought the bout would go.

"Good question," he said. "I expect it to be a very good fight from end to end. If it goes 10 rounds it'll be a tough fight. If it goes 15 it will be tough all the way."

Someone else asked what his strategy would be "against the $6 million man," "Fight like hell," he said pleasantly.

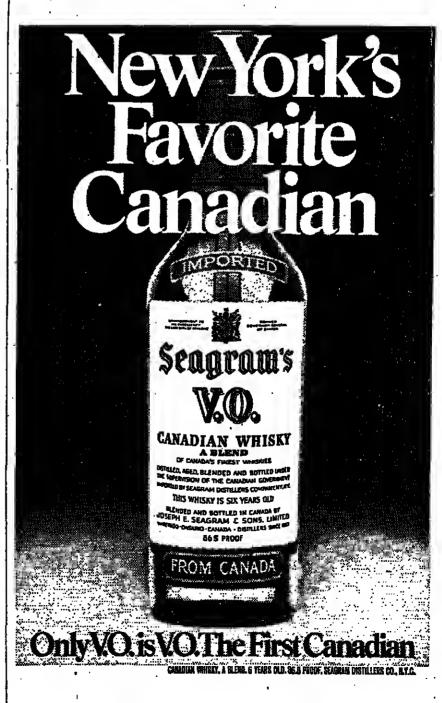

If he won, would he give Ali a return bout? "Can you imagine what the price would be for a rematch?" he said. He did not mention that talks had already begun about a match between last night's winner and Teofilo Stevenson, the two-time Olympic champion from Cuba. The Mets continued their September drive toward second place with a 5-4 victory over the Montreal Expos in the first game of a twilight-night doubleheader last night.

That gap widened to three games quickly, as the Mets lost the second game with the Expos, 4-2. Ed Kranepool homered for the tying run in the eighth inning and singled home the winning run in the ninth.

The victory was the Mets' sixth in a row, raised their September record to 20-7 and temporarily moved the New Yorkers within two games of the Pittsburgh Pirates, who are in second place in the National League's Eastern Division. However, the Pirates defeated the Chicago Cubs, 5-1, at Pitts-burgh, so that the Mets' deficit was stretched to 2½ games before their second contest was completed.

Kranepool, 31-year-old "elder states-man" of the Mets, overcame a 4-3 deficit leading off the eighth inning of the first game by smashing his 10th home run, into the right-field bull pen. With two out in the home half of the ninth Bruce Rossclair breathed the ninth, Bruce Boisclair breathed new life into the Mets with a single. Jim Dwyer pinch-hit for Felix Millan, who is suffering from a brussed right wrist, and kept things going with a single to center.

Joe Kerrigan, who was to lose the game, then walked John Milner on four pitches, bringing Kranepool to the plate. Steady Eddie, as he is known to his teammates, singled sharply to right

The Giants scored an unearned run in third off the loser, Frank LaCorte, 3-11, on Speier's infield single, an error and Knepper's single. Murcer added his 23d home run of the season in the

some of the Royals went back to their bull pen area in foul territory in right field, and the fans there started in on them verbally. Presently, a huge spray of beer cascaded at the players, followed by smaller amounts of beer and paper cups, and the wiser ones restrained the enraged ones from climbing into the stands, while the fans showed at least enough sense not to come out on the field. So a serious riot situation was averted, and the game was resumed.

But it now developed that Steve Mingori, the relief pitcher Herzog had chosen, was a casualty of the melee.

Canada Foresees Threats To Commonwealth Games

EDMONTON, Alberta, Sept. 26-Two months after the event, the political aroma of the summer Olympic Games in Montreal surround the preparations for the next big international sports event scheduled in Canada, the Commoowealth Games to be held here Aug. 3-12, 1978.

The Commoowealth Games, bringing together athletes from more than 40 countries in what was formerly known as the British Empire, may lack Olym-pic glamour, but they can produce dra-matic moments like the historic confrontation between John Bannister of Britain and John Landy of New Zealand in the one-mile run io Vancouver in 1954, the last time the games were held in Canada. They were called the British Empire Games at that time.

Bannister, the first man to run the mile in less than 4 minutes, had to do it again to beat Landy on Aug. 7, 1954. The Englishman was clocked in 3:58.8 and Landy lo 3:59.6—the first time two men bettered 4 minutes in one race. It was the third sub 4-minute mile. Landy held the world record at the time of 3:57.9.

The same agitation, centering around New Zealand, that led to the withdrawal of 29 African nations from the Montreal Olympics is being repeated here.

The walkout at the Olympics followed unsuccessful demands for the suspension of New Zealand from particination in the Games because of that country's athletic relations with South Africa, which practices apartheid, or racial separation

Boycott Is Threatened

Anti-apartheid groups are threatening to promote a similar boycott by the African, Asian and Caribbean members of the Commonwealth at the Edmonton Games if New Zealand is admitted.

Neither the controversy io the Olympics nor the agitation here has involved South Africa directly, since that country was expelled from the Olympic movement and withdrew from the Commonwealth over racial policies.

However, a crowd, led by members of a South African expatriate organizaof a South African expatriate organiza-tion opposed to apartheid, invaded a cricket ground a few days ago where Canadians were playing against a Brit-ish team that had toured South Africa. Police arrested 61 of the demonstrators in a wild scene and charged them with trespassing.

"We will invite all countries of the Commonwealth family," Dr. Maury Van Vliet, the head of the Edmonton Commonwealth Games Foundation, said in an interview.

"It is extremely difficult to anticipate "It is extremely difficult to anticipate the situation one and a half to two years from now," added Van Vliet, the dean of the Department of Physical Education at the University of Alberta and a former star quarterback at the University of Oregon.

Meanwhile, plans for an event that will significantly upgrade the sporting and recreational facilities in this growaing center of Canadian petroleum.

ing center of Canadian petroleum matural gas, farming, cattle raising and manufacturing enterprises are going ahead, with none of the other difficulties that plagued the staging of the Ulymples in Montreal.

Projected Price Sliced

Where the expenses of holding the Olympic Games escalated to nearly five times the origina projection in Montreal, reaching a record of $1.5 hillioo in the end, the hudget for the less-elabo-rate Commonwealth Games has been substantially reduced from the earlier of the $43.4 millioo first projected, the whole construction package for the 1978 games will cost only $36 millioo, according to the planners. The lower figure includes a cushion of $1 million for contingencies.

For this relatively modest amount, the City of Edmonton will have new sports facilities, including a 55,000-seat stadium and associated athletic and other body-building facilities, costing $20.9 million; a new aquatic complex with four swimming pools, for $8.5 millico; a new velodrome and vecues for such sports as shooting and lawn bowling, the latter a popular pastime throughout the Commonwealth.

Edminton has likewise been spared the funding problems that plagued

The Federal Government, which refused to contribute directly to the Mootreal Olympics, has allotted $1.2 million to Edmooton; the city is putting up $11.6 million; the province of Alberta, of which Edmonton is the capital. has pledged $7.9 million, and the drive for private donations to cover the rest has been highly satisfactory, the plan-

Kilmer said the credit for George Allen's 100th pro coaching victory should go to the defense. They were super, and it's a good thing because the offense was much too inconsistent tonight."

Allen, whose quick judgment in calling a timeout with 12 seconds left in the first half led to a Weshington touchdown, joined Kilmer in saying the offense had a long way to go.

PLEASANIVILLE, N.Y., Sept. 28— Terry Metcalf doesn't do the kickoff and punt returns for the Cardinals anymore, so the chances are he won't meet the Spaceman in St. Louis Sunday.

Don Lloyd doesn't care whom be knocks down, Metcalf or his runback replacements with the Cardinals-Pat Tilley, Wayne Morris and Jerry Latin. The Spaceman is a rookie linebacker with the Giants who doesn't get to do much linebacking. He made the 43-man squad not because he was a sixth-round draft choice out of the University of Washington, not hecause he could some day be a star linebacker in the National Football League.

The Spaceman made the roster because he knocks people down and be-ceuse nearly 20 percent of the oppor-tunities to knock people down occurs in "special-team" situations—punts, kickoffs, extra-point and field-goal attempts.

"It may be the only factor as to why I'm here," the 22-year-old rookie said today after the first day of practice for the game at St. Louis. "They had six linebackers they wanted to go with and I think my work with the specials decided it for me."

"specials" decided it for me."

The Giants traded one of the six line-backers, Andy Selfridge, to Miami for a draft choice, thus making room for Lloyd. The 6-foot-2-inch, 225-pound youngster responded with fierceness.

"I'm not looking for a place to hide out there," said Lloyd. "I'm looking for a place to stand out."

Lloyd's work on the specials was so outstanding that Coach Bill Arnsparger named the rookie one of the Co-captains for last Sunday's game against the Los Angeles Rams.

"You're interested to see what a young guy'll do when you name him a captain." Arnsparger said. "Dan responded."

Lloyd understands be must put in his time with football's kamikaze squads. 'This is my first year here, and there's some good people ahead of me at linebacker," he said. 'Tm just happy about being here at all."

Davis may be the Jets' statistical leader, but that does not amount to much on this team, which has lost all three of its games. He has gained 106 yards on 28 carries for an average of 3.8 a carry.

The second-leading rusber is Marinaro, with 64 yards in the three games. Gresham has carried four times and gained 6 yards. Davis will oow be , the backup at fullback to Marinaro. In his first season with the Jets last year, Gresham was the star of the exhibition game. But he fumbled on the first two drives in the season opener at Buffelo, was benched, then got injured and was in eclipse the rest of the campaign. the campaign.

Gresham's backup at haifback will be the rookie, Louie Giammona, who has rushed for 15 yards on five carries. Over all, the Jets average 3.6 yards

Because the Jets have not established a ground game, they have yielded the bail rather quickly. That has forced the defense to play most of the time. And the defense is the Jets' major weak-

In the three games the defense has been on the field for 44 more plays than the offense. Last Sunday it had to remain under a 93-degree Miami sun about 70 percent of the time.

In the last 8½ quarters the Jets have oot had a touchdown. Their longest run has been 20 yards.

But they rank among the leaders in punting (Duane Carrell has averaged 41.9 yards) and kickoff returns (Gammona is averaging 27.1). Those are two areas in which they have received an extaordinary amount of game experi-

Howe to Play This Season

The Baltimore Orioles ended speculation about Manager Earl Weaver yesterday. Weaver was rehired for the 1977 American League baseball season. Hank Peters, the cinb's general manager, made the announcement

The 46-year-old Weaver, completing his 20th season in the Baltimore organization, signed a one-year contract. The terms were oot disclosed, although it is believed that Weaver worked for about $80,000 this season. .

Gordie Howe is about to start one more season of professional bockey, his 29th, at age 48. Howe, the sport's lead-ing career scorer, had announced his retirement at the end of each of the last three seasons with the Houston Aeros of the World Hockey Associa-

Manhattan College has established a scholarship in the name of Junius A. Kellogg, now deputy commissioner with New York City's Community Development Agency. In 1951, when he was a star of Manhattan's basketball team, Kellogg revealed that he bad been approached by a gambler who offered him $1,000 to "throw" a game between Manhattan and De Paul.

Kellogg feigned interest, and reported the offer to Ken Norton, then basket-ball coach and now Manhattan's athletic director. Manhattan College officials then reported it to the Bronx District

SOUTH BEND, Ind., Sept. 28 (AP)-Rick Slager, who set a Notre Dame record last Saturday by completing 12 of 14 passes for 231 yards and three touchdowns, was named national college back of the week today by The Associated Press.

The 5-foot-1-inch, 190-pound senior from Columbus, Ohio, had completed only nine of 29 attempts for 114 yards with three interceptions in the first two games, a 31-10 loss to Pitt and a 23-0 victory over Purdue. But his 12-of-14 effort in a 48-0 rout of Northwestern eriort in a 48-0 four of Northwestern gave him a single-game completion per-centage of 85.7, breaking the former Notre Dame mark of 81.3, set by Bob Williams against Michigan State in

McDonald Answers Call t Rushing Slows Up Weaver Rehired by Orioles; In Big Way for Chargers

Three weeks ago Dwight McDonald, a wide receiver, was released by the San Diego Chargers, for whom he had been a regular last session, and no other team picked him up. The 25-yearold McDonald, a San Diego native, refused to believe that this was the eod of a career, not an untypical reaction of final cuts in the Na-Football tional Football League So he played tennis every day and waited for the phone to ring. Some wait forever.

Gary Garrison, for years the Chargers' top receiver, was burt in the second gama and declared out for the season. McDonald's phone did ring. He re-joined the team and caught two touchdown passes last Sunday as the Chargers upset the Cardinals, 43-24. "It sure beats playing tennis every day," said McDonald.

That was the best rag-to-riches story of the campaign so far but it need not be the last one. The N.F.L. teams are playing with 43-man squads this season and without the customary non-roster reserves of taxi squad in case of injuries. The way around that has been to have an oo-call list of free agents, such as McDonald, or in some cases to have a mini-taxi squad stashed away in a nearby motel, all expenses paid, which is against league rules.

which is against league rules. Since a team can play only 11 men at ooce, a squad of 43 might seem sufficient. The usual breakdown is 23 offensive players and 20 for defense as follows: three quarterbacks, four wide relows: three quarterracks, four wide re-ceivers, two tight ends, eight interior linemen, five running backs and a kick-er for offense; seven linemen, six line-backers, six backs and a punter for defense. If there are two or more in-juries at one of these positions, the general manager or personnel director pulls out his little black book and starts phoning free agents.

phoning free agents.

The Jets, who have had as much player turnover as any team this month, do not hide out players. But they think they have found e team that does and Al Ward, the general man-eger, is annoyed.

With Billy Newsome and Carl Barzilauskas injured, the Jets need belp in the defensive line. They know of a free agent who would fill the bill, but the athlete has been in another city negotiating with the team there and staying in a motel with his wife, N.F.L. rules permit teams to give one-day tryouts to free agents before signing them or rejecting them.

offices on Park Avenue and he is not offices on Park Avenue and he is not prepared to check motel guest lists throughout the country. He says, "We don't want a police state within the N.F.L., but the problem of evading the player limit comes up every time. Team fines by the commissioner are common. We find out from complaints of other teams, from the newspapers or from the players themselves."

Ward points out that the team fract.

Ward points out that the team freezing the athlete the Jets could use, possibly by paying him cash clandestinely, has established an unfair competitive advantage by depriving the New York team, which has lost three straight and is somewhat desperate. Ward says the other team is a playoff contender in the Jets' division and he will go no

The one-day trial rule is widely abused. The athlete trying out is not supposed to work out with the others or to put on psds. The practice, however, is to get the free agent to sign an injury waiver, put on the pads and hit with the roster players for one, two or three days to see what he can offer. Football pleyers will endure eny number of indignities for e weekly $1,500 game salary.

Speaking of 11 meo on the field et one time, the Jets ran into 12 at Miami on Sunday. PEUGEOT MEANS METEOR MOTORS

Our Service and Parts Dept. are statted by people whose combined experience total over 100 years of experience total over 100 years of experience At Methor, we know how to fix it right the first line, and kill is our attitude, combined with our experience that makes us the envy of others.

The purchase of a car can either be a phas-sail experience or an expectable mistake, who have been accounted to the right of the property of the property of the few Peupods we can arrange the you di-deal you want. Last year over 75% of our catalyses who either purchased, feesed or financed cars through us, cld so by the re-commendation of a previous Acctor Motors consonress.

At present, we have a good number of brand new '76 Peupeys, with a tuil choice of models and colors, all at huge savings. Come talk to us, A GOOD DEALER-MAKES

Even as their protest was going on Justice Edward J. Greenfield of State Su-

The injunction yesterday in effect ex-tended a ban imposed late Monday evening by Justice Hyman Korn under which picketers would be limited to 100

Many Officers Feel That Interna Strife Led to Lack of Control of the Union Membership

By SELWYN RAAB

The decline of the once-powerful Pa-trolmen's Benevolent Association's influence at City Hall was described yesterday as one of the chief factors behind the current street demonstrations by thous-ands of off-duty police officers. In addition, many officers familiar with the internal problems of the P.B.A. agree that the union has been so badly torn apart recently by ioternal rivalries that effective control of the membership has virtually vanished.

"We're a vacuum looking for a leader," one police officer explained. "We've got all these problems with the city and we literally don't know to whom or where to turn to in the P.B.A."

On a picket line yesterday, another off-duty officer, asserted: "Demonstrations seem to be the only way we put pressure on City Hall, the public and the P.B.A.

Howard Morse, a public relations coun-selor to Douglas Weaving, the P.B.A. president who is in charge of the union's negotiations with the city, denied that the organization was rudderless.

"The insurgents can do anything they please without worrying about responsibility," Mr. Morse said. "The P.B.A. is not rudderless, but the captain is at the heim and he has no time to wave the flag like some of his competitors."

The outward grievances of the 18,000 officers represented by the P.B.A. center targely on a deferred wage increase and unions, with its support eagerly sought by many politicians. In exchange, the union in the late 1960's and early 1970's won large wage increases and attractive fringe benefits.

For decades, until the 1970's, the mantle of P.B.A. leadership usually had been transferred peacefully, without any hitter elections.

Further resentment among the union's membership arose last spring when jobs and promotions were restored to other city agencies, incloding the Fire and Sanitation Departments.

"The only time the city remembered us in the last year is when one of us got killed in the line of duty," one officer said hitterly.

"Scapegoat Feeling ules under which policemen would be required to work an additional 10 days each year. These schedules are to go into effect next Sunday.

"We're not going to give up on that," the Mayor said, his voice rising. "The people of this city are entitled to proper police protection."

Scapegoat Feeling

As the police failed to regain any of the lost benefits, Mr. McFeeley, in an unexpected move, resigned last May. He was succeeded by Mr. Weaving, a vice president. But almost immediately Mr. McFeeley and three others announced they would challenge Mr. Weaving for the presidency next, May. That's when the election fusillades began.

"No one really has any widespread support," one longtime policeman commented yesterday. "A lot of guys believe McFeeley betrayed them, Weaving basn't done anything for them and those other candidates are just stirring up trouble to get elected."

Many officers interviewed vectoral and the president to inject a coordinatory note when be praised New York City policemen for their. "goodwill" during such recent events as the Bicenteen hal celebrations and the Democratic National Convention. "I am asking them to show the same kind of goodwill and belp in bringing about a rapid resolution to the matter," he said.

Late this evening, a spokesman for the P.B.A. said that "some progress" bad been made in the negotiations, but he declined to elaborate.

Many officers interviewed yesterday said they were opposed to a wildcat strike but would participate in what they described as the spontaneous rallies organized by different groups of officers. Except for "informational picketing" at station bouses, the P.B.A. has not authorized the street rallies or demonstrations

For the last few days, officers who a few months ago muttered oaths at strik-ing municipal hospital workers who used bongo drums and shrill whistles on picket lines outside hospitals have adopted the same noisy tactics.

"It worked for the hospital workers," an off-duty officer said. "The city didn't complain about them. So why all the protests against us when we do it to express

At a news conference yesterday afternoon at City Hall, Mayor Beame reiterated the city's position that it would "immediately" grant policemen a 6 percent wage increase effective last week, as well as a cost-of-living raise, if only the P.B.A. would agree to drop a lawsuit to wio. the salary increase retroactive to July 1, 1975.

The Sociologist and Artist

By ANATOLE BROYARD

SOCIOLOGY AS AN ART, FORM By Robert Nisbet, 145 pages, Oxford, $8.95 cloth; $2.50 paper.

"Scientists Marx, Weber, Durkheim and Simmel were without question. But they were also artists, and had they not been artists, had they contented themselves with demonstrating solely what had been arrived at through aseptic problem design, through meticulous verification, and through constructions of theory which would pass muster in a graduate course in methodology of sociology today, the entire world of thought would be much poorer." What Robert Nisbet is pleadogy as an Art Form" in general, is a recognition by the sociologist of the artist in himself and of his reciprocal relation to the art of his time. Mr. Nisbet attempts to encourage the sociologist to cultivate his intuition, to give freer play to his imagination, by pointing out that this is precisely what the giants of 19th- and early 20th-century social thought have done.

In Mr. Nisbet's opinion, the "logic of discovery" has too often been sub-ordinated to "the logic of demonstration." "The great harm of the present consecration of method, including theory construction, is that it persuades students that a small idea abundantly students that a small linea adminantly verified is worth more than a large idea still insusceptible to textbook techniques of verification." He quotes a science historian, Thomas Kuhn, to the effect that "conventional science" is made up of "answers to what are at hottog only restricts." In a writing the still of the series of the serie at bottom only puzzles." In a witticism based on Descartes's fidelity to deduction, Willard Libby, the scientist, calls essential scientific method "rape followed by seduction," which might be translated as an intuitive leap that is later rationalized.

False Absolutes

A faith in "theory" and "system," according to Mr. Nisbet, amounts almost to a superstition, among some social scientists. He sees these concepts as often inhibiting the evidence of the senses, as if a sociologist were to evolve his theories in a laboratory, rather than in the immediate context of buman behavior. He finds this tendency at its worst in government-spondency at its worst in government-sponsored, massively organized research, as when one official agency or another "declares war" on poverty, on discrimination or on some other widespread public problem. It is no more probable, the author says, than that scientific achievement can be "legislated or decreed into being" and that a great novel, symphony or painting can be so created.

In "Sociology as an Art Form," Mr. Nisbet shows how social science deals in themes and styles much as art does. The feeling tone, or zeitgeist, of a culture is its style. The main themes of sociology are the same stuff of which literature is also made: "community, authority, status the sarred and alients. authority, status, the sacred and aliena-tion." Thomas Hardy and George Eliot. were certainly concerned with the effects of community on individual lives; Dostoyevski was obsessed with authority, Dickens and Balzac with status; almost all of these writers dealt with the sacred, and a multitude of authors

after Dostoyevski with alienation. Continuing his art-science parallel, Mr. Nisbet points out that, in the 19th century, a time of large-scale social upheaval, sociologists saw human "landscapes." People were perceived "panoramically" as "the masses." Instead of organically related communi-ties, social thinkers observed "aggre-gates" of isolated individuals, much like the family of acrobats in one of Picasso's blue period paintings—all of them bemusedly gazing in different directions. Max Weber's notion of rationalization, the conversion of traditional and personal types of authority into those based upon the rational ends-means schema," settled like a suf-focating smog over the social landscape of the new bureaucracy.

The landscape of the city was almost immediately condemned as soul-de-stroying by artists and sociologists alike, though most of them lived and worked there. The pastoral scene, which Marx dismissed as "the idiocy which Mark dismissed as the inicey of rural life" and which certainly contained its own brutal realities, now became a landscape as idyllic as a painting by Constable, proving that sociology was as susceptible to nostalgia as fiction, poetry or painting.

Inheriting Peasantry

In sociological portraiture, Marx was the equal of any novelist in depicting the bourgeois, and Max Weber's bu-reaucrat might have been a forerunner of Kafka's. The worker, that ambiguous creature, inherited for a while all the alleged virtues of the "innocent" peasant. Social thinkers showed themselves to be unexpectedly Romantic, a trait that persists, still largely unrecognized, in them today.

The last chapter of "Sociology as an Art Form" is called "The Rust of Progress," and here Mr. Nisbet shows, even more vividly than in the preceding chapters, what an artist he is. His account of the price we have paid for progress amounts to a sociological translator of T. S. Eliot's "The Wasteland" or W. B. Yeats's "The Second Coming"

Sociologists, be says, bave become no less disillusioned than artists: In fact, many of them seem to bave turned into poets in their descriptions of 19th- and 20th-century sociaty. Durkheim writes of "the malady of infinite aspiration"; Simmel says that the modern individual "has too much to hide" to be able to risk true friendship. Perhaps most poetic, and pro-phetic, of all is Felicite Robert de Lamennais, who wrote this as far back as 1819: "As man moves away from order, anguish presses around him. He is the king of his own misery, a de-graded sovereign in revolt against himself, without duties, without bonds, without society. Alone in the midst of the universe, he runs, or rather he seeks to run, into nothingness."

this week a remarkable book has been quetily published; it is one of the best Tye read in years.

"The Woman Warrior" is itself anythiog but quiet. It is fierce intelligence, all sinew, prowling among the emotions. As a portrait of village life in pre-Mao China, it is about as sentimental as Celine. As an account of growing up female and Chinase-American in California, in a laundry of course, it is animostaigne: It burns the far right out of the mind. As a dreamof the "female avenger"—It is dizzynik, elemental a poem turned into a sword.

For Maxine Hong Kingston, who was born in Stockton, Calif., there are two sets of ghosts. One set is Chinese legends, traditions, folklore, and always the inwooded girl-child. The other set is Western, American, barbarian, the machine-myths of the Occident. Somewhore in between, like the poet Ts'ai Yea, she is a hostage. And it isn't clear whether there is a place for her to reburn to, with her songs "from the savage lands."

"The Warrior Woman" trafficks back and forth between sets of ghosts, re-imagining the past with such dark beauty, such precision and anger and sadness, that you feel you have saddled the Tao dragon and see all through the fiery eye of God. Then, suddenly, you are dumped into the mundane, into scenes so carefully observed, so balanced on a knife-edge of bope and humiliation, that you doo't know whether to laugh or cry. Other writers come to miliation, that you doo't know whether to laugh or cry. Other writers come to wind — Garcia Marquez, who' also knows how to dress myth up in fiving flesh: or, thinking about warrior women, Monique Witting, if she had a sense of humor and before she lapsed into balderdash.

of humor and before she lapsed into balderdash.

But this shottling, on an electric line of prose, between fantasy and specificity, is wonderfully original. I can't remember when a young writer walked up to and into every important scene in a book and dealt with it outlings, as Mrs, Kingston does, without any evasions whatsoever. Or an old writer, for that matter they have their avoidance tricks. It wearies a writer always having to be in the best form, compromising the least with difficult material, unruly characters. It doesn't weary Mrs. Kingston. And Braye Orchid, the mother to end all mother, in this book, is more real to me than most of the people I see every day.

Germany to the Polls

The recent ouster of Sweden's Social Democratic Party after 44 years in power has encouraged conservative forces all over Europe, particularly in West Germany. Helmut Kohl, leader of the opposition Christian Democratic Union, called the outcome in Sweden "a signal for Europe not to deliver our continent over to the Socialist International."

On Sunday, 41 million West German voters will provide a measure of the potency of that "signal" from Stockholm as they decide whether to retain Chancellor Helmut Schmidt's coalition of Social and Free Democrats in Bonn or to restore power to Mr. Kohl's C.D.U. and its Bavarian partner, the Christian Social Union. In fact, this indication of how strongly the conservative. tide is flowing in Europe will be very nearly the only issue decided by the Bundestag election, apart from the question of who shall govern for the next four years.

In other words, there are no burning issues in either foreign or home-front policy that divide Mr. Schmidt's forces from those of Mr. Kohl. It has been a campaign waged mostly on differences in emphasis rather than of basic policy, and most observers believe the resultswill hinge heavily on the reaction of the voters to the personalities of the four principals; the two coalition leaders and their chief partners-Foreign Minister Hans-Dietrich Genscher for the Free Democrats in the Government tandem and former Defense and Finance Minister Franz-Josef Strauss for the Christian Social

Mr. Kohl's slogan, "Freedom Instead of Socialism," is ludicrous when applied to Chancellor Schmidt, who has dealt harshly with the Social Democratic left wing since he succeeded Willy Brandt in 1974, and has directed Western Europe's most effective anti-inflation and economic recovery programs, using such respectable conservative instruments as budget cutbacks followed by an $8 billion tax cut and lower interest rates. Any other Western European bead of government would be happy to face the voters with West Germany's current inflation and unemployment rates-both around ,4

If Mr. Kohl leads the Christian Union parties back to power it will not be because he has effectively attacked the Government on the issues-although Germans with memories of the post-World War I inflation worry more about a 4 percent rate than other Europeans do about one three times as high. It will be rather that Mr. Kohl bas correctly perceived a conservative tide and has emerged as a surprisingly effective campaigner whose appeals to traditional middle-class values have evoked enthusiastic responses almost everywhere.

It is obvious that the Government coalition failed to take Mr. Kohl seriously enough at the start of the campaign and has been unsuccessful in its attempt to picture him as simply a provincial Governor of Rhineland-Palatinate who would be out of his depth as Federal Chancellor and a front man for the impetuous, often irresponsible, Mr. Strauss. The Christian Union's liability in the closing days of the campaign is not Mr. Kohl but Mr. Strauss, who has shamelessly hinted that the Social Democrats-many of whom suffered horribly under Hitler-are really "of the same family" as the

Despite Mr. Strauss's excesses, Bonn's partners and allies have little to worry about in this election of the eighth Bundestag. Anchored securely in the West, the Federal Republic will continue to play major roles in NATO and the European Community and, however the election comes out, the next Government will continue -cautiously and without illusions-the effort, launched by Willy Brandt, to build more normal relationships with the Soviet bloc. These certainties help explain why other Western governments are taking Bonn's current election campaign very much in stride.

Chaos on Arms

The controversy over the sale to Saudi Arabia of 650 air-to-ground Mayerick missiles illustrates the grave risks that flow from this country's reckless arms trade with the rest of the (non-Communist) world. In the absence of a carefully designed policy of restraint governing the export of sophisticated weapons, the United States is following the chaotic course that was set when President Nixon on an overnight stopover in Teheran in 1972 told Iran in a spur-of-the-moment gesture that it could huy virtually anything it wanted.

what can only be called the inundation with American arms of an unstable and inflammable region. The latest order from Saudi Arabia, which has already bought $6 billion worth of American arms and recently has outstripped the dangerously excessive Iranian purchases, is only the latest wave in a continuing tide. The Congressional effort to hlock this particular missiles order could hardly be described as a move to strip a relatively friendly Middle-Eastern nation of its capacity to defend itself against outside attack; it would be more accurate to say that this was an attempt to apply some needed controls to the increasingly dangerous proliferation of American weapons in the Middle East,

Reports of behind-the-scenes threats prove, despite denials from official Saudi Arabian and American sources, that uncontrolled American arms sales have exposed the United States needlessly to international hlackmail. In its frantic-and yesterday successful -attempt to head off the Congressional move to block the Mavericks' delivery, the Ford Administration leaked dark hints that Saudi Arabia's displeasure (already incurred by a toughening Congressional stand against the Arabs' effort to impose an illegal secondary boycott in the United States) might trigger enother oil

The spongelike American policy on arms exports effectively takes decision-making out of Washington's hands and delivers it to foreign governments in coalition with their own and American special-interest lobbies. Under such circumstances, Congressional action is a natural response to abdication by the White House of its fundamental responsibility to control the arms trade wherever it threatens to stimulate international conflict in troubled areas of the world,

Lynching

The National Association for the Advancement of Colored People is engaged in a desperate effort to raise $1.6 million to post as a bond in order to appeal a $1.2 million judgment entered against it by a court in Mississippi, It is a sad and undeserved plight for one of America's most distinguished institutions.

In the 67 years since it was established by a biracial group of citizens who were troubled by the 1908 racial riots, it fought against lynching when it was common for scores of hlacks to be lynched annually; it fought losing and dispiriting legal hattles when Earl Warren was still a young man; it began integrating ballot boxes and schools all over the nation in the 50's and its Oklahoma City youth group conducted sit-ins two years before the famous student movement began in North Carolina in 1960.

During the 60's, in addition to its own direct programs in the field, the N.A.A.C.P. put up bonds for other black activists who were jailed all over the South, worked quietly with the executive branch in developing civil rights policy and lobbled effectively for new laws up on Capitol Hill. One of its direct-action, programs during those years was a boycott against merchants of Port Gibson, Miss., who refused to give jobs to blacks. One of those merchants was elected to the State Legislature, and was instrumental in the passage, after the boycott was under way, of the law under which the suit was brought which threatens to squeeze the life out of the N.A.A.C.P.

Now, a decade later, while it is still reeling from the requirement of another Mississippi'court that it post a bond io excess of a quarter of a million dollars in an unrelated case, a chancery court judge imperiled this rich tradition of social struggle by finding that the merchants had been damaged to the tune of $1.2 million. Unless the organization is able to find several hundred thousand dollars by the end of this week, the nation will have witnessed the judicial equivalent of an old-fashioned Mississippi lynching.

The Plans for Gateway

It took vision, in Congress and out of it, to conceive of the megalopolis, that are still relatively intact or of the Gateway National Recreation Area, that remarkable complex of parks and seashores projected as a unified whole stretching from Sandy Hook to Queens. Once legislated, it needed vision to make specific plans for this first Federal park in an urban setting—the most concentrated urban setting in the country.

Six months ago the National Park Service offered the public three options and asked for advice on which way to go. It took advice from expert consultants as well as from the general public and has come up with a draft plan that is imaginative, promising-and expensive.

To appreciate what the Park Service has done, one has to bear in mind that Gateway presented it with problems wholly absent from its experience. In the great national parks of the West the problem has been to expose the public - that part of it fortunate enough to afford the travel - to huge areas of largely untouched lands, tracts of forest and unspoiled streems. The emphasis was, as it ought to have been, on keeping the parks as virginal and free of organized recreation facilities as possible, an objective to which the Park Service unfortunately has not always adhered in re-

With Gateway, however, the objective is educational and recreational, a necessarily organized exposure of a large population to coastal areas, at the doorstep that can be restored.

Perhaps surprising to those from outside the metropolitan region, significant tracts bordering on New York harbor still retain their natural integrity-Sandy Hook's wild strip of ocean front, for one example, and the unique bird sanctuary in Jamaica Bay for another. The Park Service's plan would maintain their integrity while elsewhere setting up complexes of an educational as well as recreational nature so-called "Gateway Villages" which would serve as eye-openers to the wonders

In addition, beaches would be rehabilitated, trails would be maintained, trained guides provided, and centers established for lectures, music and folk dancing. The Park Service, working with the city, would be responsible for transporting people to and from the string of gems that make up Gateway and adorn New York harbor.

There are still major obstacles ahead. The city has to do far more than it has yet indicated to help assure the needed transportation system. Congress has to move from its early authorization of $90 million to actual appropriations of $300 million if Gateway is to measure up to the plans now drawn up for it.

But those plans have at last taken shape. If they materialize, the results would do more for the city's reviving spirit than any project or combination of projects now in sight.

To the Editor. Your lead editorial of Sept. 19 says that President Ford "called for [housingl subsidies that would substantially reduce the required downpayment on homes." The editorial also suggests that the President's proposal contradicts his veto of the 1975 emergency housing act.

This inaccurately describes both the President's housing proposals and their relationship to his veto.

The President has not called for any subsidies.

Rather, he asks for a reduction of up to 53 percent in the required downpayments on homes purchased with mortgages insured by the Federal Housing Administration. He proposes, too, lower initial mortgage payments. The payments would go up for a decade when a home buyer's earning power could be expected to rise as well, and cover the payments more

Neither initiative calls for a subsidy. Each offers a federally guaranteed loan by a private lender to a private home buyer. There is no budget

Congress, however, did call for a subsidy. In the vetoed version of the 1975 bill, the taxpayer would have paid the difference between 6 percent and prevailing mortgage interest rates of more than 9 percent on home mortgages of middle-income home buyers.

The President's veto was sustained with the support of the most knowledgeable Democratic members of Congress, including Housing Subcommittee Chairman Lud Ashley of Ohio, who characterized the vetoed bill as "a turkey that could never fly."

The bill would have used tax dollars to force down interest rates for many who could afford to pay more and to force up interest rates for everyone else. It would have fanned inflation.

What has happened since demonstrates the wisdom of President Ford's economic leadership as well as his veto of that "turkey that could never

The supply of mortgage credit has increased. The taxpeyer is saved another layer of bureaucracy. The rate of inflation has been halved. New housing starts have risen dramatically.

Report From Redwood Country

To the Editor-My family and I traveled by car to Washington and Oregon this summer, to see the land. We marveled at the tranquil beauty of the mountains, covered with snow, often hidden by their own clouds, surrounded by tremendous stands of evergreens, and trembled at the endless encroachment of roads, structures and tourists, including ourselves. On every road, it seemed, there were logging trucks, tractors with double trailers hauling redwoods and huge trees from some improvised dirt road to other centrally located fabrication and distribution points. From early morning to sundown, the trucks raced up and down the secondary roads we traveled, passing every car in sight while fully loaded and going even faster on the return trip with empty trailers double-stacked on the tractor, to get back to the cutting stand for another load and another trip.

and where are they going? "Sierra Club Kiss My Axe" reads the humper sticker. "Preserving our natural forests is for the unemployed and for the wealthy," reads the local editorial page. When the trees are all gone, where do we get oew ones? No problem, say the loggers, we plant new ones, like corn or potatoes, and in a few bundred years they'll be just as But there is a problem. We traveled by car to Washingtoo and Oregon this summer and saw (before the loggers became smart enough to hide their cuts from the auto traveler) acres of stumps of huge trees, blanched by the years, without a seedling in sight. I am convinced that only an aroused public, from outside the area, can offer any resistance to the saws and the trucks. I have also learned through the years that trying to stop them everywhere can at least stop them somewhere.

What are our priorities? Where are they going with our heritage in Redwood Country just south of Oregon building houses today?

Of Harriman's Advice

To the Editor:

In your Sept. 21 report of Averell Harriman's visit with Leonid Brezhnev, Mr. Harriman is quoted as observing, with respect to our election campaigns, I'm not sure I was able to persuade him that everything that was said [during a campaign] was of no importance." Since Mr. Harriman speaks with authority, as an experienced politician, I assume that we Americans should be similarly persuaded. Thus there would appear to be little point to the electorate's paying any heed to the rhetoric of the campaign or to the arguments set forth in the "great debates." Perhaps this will explain the prediction that less than half of the elizible voters will cast a ballot in November. Can our democracy survive this attitude of our politicians?

Bootstrapping It Here

By Anthony M. Scotto

The disestrous economic decline of New York City continues. Distracted perhaps by a Bicentennial exuberance, or lulled by the euphoria of fiscal solvency, many New Yorkers believed that the extraordinary sacrifices of the last year would somehow make everything right. But new Labor Department employment figures are depressing. Almost 350,000 people are out of work in the city. Unemployment bas risen to 10.8 percent, the highest in the state. Fewer people are working in the city than at any time aince the end of World War II. We have lost 600,600 jobs since 1969, including one-third of all manufacturing employment. Still the economic base continues to deteri-

This is the situation in spite of the unprecedented changes of the last year. Almost 60,000 municipal employees are ont of work. We began a new school year with understaffed classrooms. Senior-citizen and daycare centers, hospitals and health-care centers are shut. The 130-year tradition of free tuition at our City University is gone.

While these painful cuts were being made, there seemed a sense that things would change. There was a feeling that if we pared excess and eliminated waste, that if we did what we had to do to avoid bankruptcy, we would be rewarded

The barsh reality is otherwise. Last year's struggle may not have been worth it. The cuts of 1975-76 may have to be repeated again and we could end as an urban Appalachia.

There are innumerable causes for our problems, Municipal inefficiency and bureaucratic incompetence are part of them. It is also true that 40year-old Federal policies bave shortchanged this city and region. .

The governors of the Northeast aredemanding that the Federal Government correct these balances. But re-gional reform will be a long time coming and, meanwhile, we can't become fiscal lunkies passively waiting for the next Federal fix. Continued economicdecline is not irreversible. There is plenty we can do for ourselves.

We must invest public funds so that. they will generate recurring revenues. We must shore up traditional sources of productive work and wealth at the same time that we develop new sources of financial growth. Some argue that every spare dime should be used to again fund programs that have

Felix G. Rohatyn has suggested using Municipal Assistance Corporation money to finance a new convention center. It's a good idea. Tourism is our second-largest industry. All of this in spite of the fact that we do not have a major convention center.

The construction of the center would put more than 5,000 memployed workers back on the job, and $150 million in new wages would be generated during the two and a half years of construction. Almost 25,000 new jobs could be generated by increased convention volume.

On the Gutman Thesis

By Nathan Glazer

CAMBRIDGE, Mass. - Herbert G. Guiman has performed an invaluable service with his meticulous research on the black family under slavery and in freedom, which formed three articles on this page last week. The black family, his research shows, was remarkably stable under slavery and after migration to the North—at least until 1925, when his detailed studies end. He writes that "on the eve of the Great Depression, the emerging black ghetto was not filled with broken and disorganized families." We are in his debt for radically reshaping our understanding of the black past. But if Professor Gutman is right, one has to ask: What bappened? And what bearing does this rewriting of black history have for social policy today? For something quite serious did hap-pen. The stable black family that Mr.

Gutman describes did not survive into the 1960's and the 1970's. In 1975, 35.3 percent of black families were headed by females, up from 23.7 percent in 1965 (comparable white figures, 10.5 percent, up from 9 percent in 1965). Only 56 percent of black children were living with both parents in 1974. down from 71 percent in 1965 (comparable white figures were 88 percent, down from 91 percent).

Something bappened. While it is perfectly proper for a historian to stop in 1925 and report to us that despite the terrible conditions of discrimination, persecution, low income and poor jobs that we know prevailed for blacks after freedom, the black family remained remarkably stable and durable, we are left with a perplexing question: Why, then, in the decade after 1965, when blacks moved massively into whitecollar jobs, into better-paying jobs, into colleges and universities, when discrimination declined in the South and North and was attacked by strong national legislation and strong administrative action, did the indices of family stability turn markedly adverse? In his forthcoming book, "The Black Family in Slavery & Freedom, 1750-1925." Professor Gutman devotes a few pages to this matter-but too few, and writes, surprisingly, that there is series of articles by Herbert G. Gut-century that has passed since the onset of the Great Depression." Mr. Gutman wants us to believe that just as the black family was stable under slavery-and we accept his statistics and analysis—it is doing fine now. But this is a hard position to maintain at a time when for example, a black leader such as Jesse Jackson insists that the high rate of illegitimacy among blacks is indeed a serious problem. Despite the wonderful adaptive power of the black family, this cannot be a good thing for the mothers or the children. One odd: conclusion seems to come out of the Gutman research. In a sense, the South is rehabilitated in its treatment of the blacks; and responsibility, strangely enough, for the black condition shifts to the North. But we are not told what happened in the North to produce the conditions that we see among poor blacks.

Mr. Gotman refers briefly to a new Enclosure Movement the mechanization of Southern agriculture that deprived Southern rural blacks of their economic function and contributed to their mass movement to the North—and to a new "Poor Law" — that is, welfare. But can this explain why poor blacks should have been so adversely affected by the move North? Blacks were as often unemployed and underemployed in the Southern cotton fields as in Northern cities. And how could the higher welfare payments of the North lead to such poor results for the black family? Mr. Gutman doesn't say, but seems to be felling us that the black family could survive slavery in the South, and the harsh adversity that followed in South and North, but could not survive, as well, the more supportive climate of the last few decades.

But what does that suggest that we do about the social policies, such as welfare, that impinge on such large segments of the Northern black popu-

The Hungry Heart

By William V. Shannon

WASHINGTON, Sept. 28—The heart satisfy. They exist independent of politics, but politics cannot be fully comprehended without taking account of .

Beyond the boundaries of the busy, everyday world with its reasonableness, impersonal rules and dry practicality, a person may sense the existence of and yearn for a different kind of reality, another realm of experience. This bunger takes many torms. It can be the political radical's dream of a truly just and humane society, the religious mystic's reaching out for the unknowable, or the romantic's deciphering of the universe in the flight of a seaguil or the pattern of a snowflake.

It can be the tortured vision of a madman, a Van Gogh or a Blake; it can be the thunderous music first heard only in the mind of a deaf genius like

But genius is not required. Ordinary people, too, in their workaday lives experience moments of Epiphany and 'intimations of immortality."

Throughout past ages, buman beings transcended reality and the limitauons of their own lives through religion and, importantly though less commonly, through art. But for many Americans today, religion is a dead or declining force in their lives and for society as a whole, religion has far less authority than it once did. Art still speaks to many, but art-no longer bulwarked by religious faith or classical tradition—reflects back to modern man his own anxiety and feared sense of nothingness.

In more modest and specific weys, recent bistory has mocked and frustrated the secular efforts of many Americans to give their lives a meaning heyond mere self-gratification. The resormist ideals of liberals for orderly change and gradual improvement have stumbled against the daunting reality of black slums going up in flames from Watts to Detroit to Newark and of promising programs like Medicaid and day-care centers stalemated in scandal and controversy. Who now seeks the New Frontier or celebrates a Great Society?.

Conservatives who believed in a social-vision-of-stability and prudence and integrity bave been humiliated by the Nixon and Agnew scandals. Radicals who preached revolution in the 60's are wearing vests in the 70's -or pottering about on backroad farms in Vermont.

The cold warrior's dream of an American-led crusade to save the third world from Communism by economic assistance and military force died with the last Green Beret, somewhere in Vietoam. Even the businessman, that most self-confident and extroverted of has hungers that the real world cannot Americans, has had his sense of himself dimmed by corporate corruption and giant bankruptcies.

From Mississippi to Vietnam, from Berkeley to Watergate, all crusades have furled their flags and all ideals seem dead or dishonored

When secular dreams die, the result is disillusionment and polltical anathy. When an unchurched people turn away from religion, they do not lose their sense of the transcendental and their secret hungers. Instead, cults and fads rush in. This is the Aga of Aquarius, the time of Esalen and yoga and acupuncture, tha day of consciousness-raising and the Reverend Moon. Most of these popular interests are hardly encouraging signs for any society. Astrologers were popular at the court of Louis XVI and itinerant holy men at the court of Nicholas IL

This national election is thus being conducted amid many evidences or fatalism and apathy. It is a contest for the leadership of a society that is politically disillusioned and culturally in disarray. The Republicans could have gambled on the new leadership of Ronald Reagan and the energizing fervor of his neo-fundamentalist following, but in the end they put down the Reagan challenge as if It were an unseemly proxy fight against management. Gerald Ford's stodginess and complacency meet apathy on its own terms. His is the politics of hiberna-

The Democrats did gamble. Jimmy Carter is a newcomer, Politically, he summons the nation not to a new crusade but to a restoration of authority and a revival of mutual trust-the indispensable prerequisites to the revival of a creative politics. The risk for Mr. Carter is that they are essentially conservative themes, unfamiliar to the liberal constituency in his party.

Culturally, Mr. Carter would if elected be a powerful symbol of an old, conservative religion. Unlike the fashionable pseudo-religions that profess to offer personal fulfillment and peace of mind, be hespeaks the tradition of the Old Testament with its harsh insights on human nature and human conflict and of the New Testament with its many demands for selfsacrifice and self-discipline. He would represent a return to old roots, a symbolic return that might have subtle and incalculable effects in altering the national mood and outlook for the . . .

But can the leader of a predominantly liberal party win by stressing conservative themes? Does the Age of Aquarius want a Bible-minded President in the White House?

Can a grille improve your mileage?

Everything that saves weight on a car helps to save fuel.

This grille, made of Lustran® ABS plastic by Monsanto, is a good example of how much weight can be saved in just a single place.

1 It weighs 4 pounds. The one it replaces weighs 28 pounds.

You'd never guess it, because it looks just like metal. Lustran ABS can be given a bright mirror finish that doesn't crack or peel. And with a textured finish, it's the right material for interior kick panels, gearshift consoles and dashboard inserts.

To save even more weight, Monsanto makes Vydyne®R, a mineral reinforced nylon plastic that replaces heavy die-cast metal.

It adds up to significant fuel savings, when you consider the number of cars using these new materials. And it adds up to quite a demand.

We're doing all we can to meet it, by producing light weight by the ton at Monsanto

Right now, the architect, I. M. Pel & Partners; the glasa manufacturer, Lib-bey-Ownes-Ford, and several contrac-tors are all blaming one another, and John Hancock is suing them all. But what is unfortunate is that the tower will probably ba long remembered as cast itself in the role of Medici. The building, even it such a series of disasters had not befallen it, would not have been cheap, but it is good.

The design was the work of Henry N. Cobb. a senior Pei partner, and it represents an attempt, Mr. Cobb says, to defer to the tower's surroundings which include Henry Hobson Richardson's incomparable Trinity Church on one side, the elegant Copley Plaza Hotel on the other, and Charles McKim's Boston Public Library across Copley Square. To insert a 790-foot high tower ioto such a stately building grouping is impossible without setting into motion certain drastic change, but Mr. Cobb has kapt the visual upset to a minimum.

that the Hancock company chose to cast itself in the role of Medici. The Shape Defines Corner

The tower is a parallelogram, with its narrow eod facing Copley Square and firmly defining the square's corner. A broader base fills out one side of the site, and on the other side the parallelogram drops to the ground, leaving open a small triangular plaza that permits a vista to the side of Trinity

The parallelogram shape makes the tower appear from certain angles, including from Copley Square, as a wast, two-dimensional plane rather than as a volume, an effect that further lesseos the impact of its bulk. A cotch runs from top to bottom in each narrow side, cutting the sense of bulk even

The greenish-blue glass curtain wall (a different kind of glass but almost identical in appearance to the earlier model that took to the air) is reflective. There is one panel oo each floor, thus clearly articulating the building's scale.

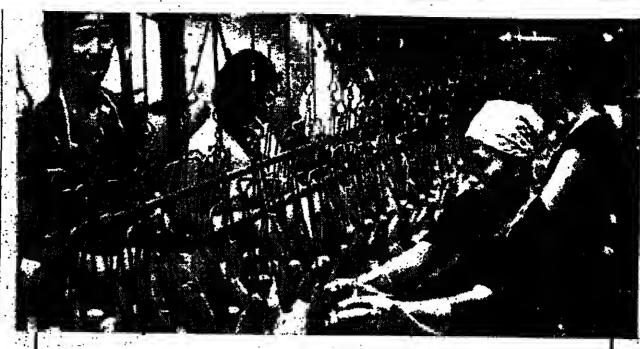

To provide a more neutral hack-ground to Trinity Church, the currain wall runs uninterrupted to the ground, the opposite approach to that of earlier skyscrapers that emphasized base, shaft and cornice. There are some unnecessarily decorative dome-like canoples, but otherwise, just sheer wall from ground to sky.

Not an Entire Success

The building's well-intentioned deference to Trinity Church is far from entirely successful, however. The shape is intelligently conceived, but the contrast between the weightless appeariss tower and the utter solidity of Richardson's church seems to emphasize the differences between the two buildings. And the reflections of the church in the glass tend to make the church look more like an object and less like a building in an urban context.

Still, it is impossible not to feel that the real villain at Copley Square is not Hancock but the design of tha square itself—or rather, the redesign as com-pleted by Sasaki, Dawson & DeMay in 1968. It is a bad, pretentious imitation of a European plazza, almost without trees in a place that desperately needs greenery to give it cohesion.

Mobile Homes for Asians

Whatevar happens in the years ahead, it appears that this community will never again be the same. The coming of the Asians is forcing the white hill people of Polk County to confront an old, deep fear.

Polk is one of many traditionally all-white counties of the bill South that never allowed Negroes to move in. It was always bandled unofficially. Self-appointed vigilantes simply collared any black person who happened along and told him not to let the sun set on him in that county. Only recently, a black cook imported by a white famila near here was frightened away by white men who told her

Defying a court order, hundreds of off-duty police officers blocked traffic near Yankee Stadium and encouraged roving youths to crash the gates to the Muhammad Ali-Ken Norton heavyweight championship fight. The offduty men protesting new work schedules and deferred raises were frequently cheered by officers on duty despita-orders to arrest disorderly demonstrators. No arrests were reported. The scene was called chaotic. [1:1:]

Under new fund-raising laws limiting the size of campaign gifts, Senator James L. Buckley has had to spend nearly 60 percent of tha $1.2 million be raised last month on fund-raising. The Republican-Conservative candidate for re-election has received about half this money from out-of-state backers. His Democratic challenger, Daniel P. Moy-nihan, bad a better return of $10 for each $3 spent on the solicitation of funds by mail. [1:2-3.]

New York State's welfare budget faces an overrun of $120 million to $175 million if welfare costs go on increasing at the current rate, threatening the state's precariously balanced budget. Governor Carey ordered his Social Services Commissioner to work with county executives in preparing new legislative proposals to counteract tha rise. His Budget Division said most of the overrun occurred upstate for employed persons living alone. [1:5.]

The pound sterling fell again until buying by the Bank of England steaded it, at $1.64, an all-time low. Prime Minister James Callaghao's call for self-sacrifice in a speech to the Labor Party cooference bad not stopped the slide. Denis Healey, Chancellor of the Exchequer, canceled his departure for a Commoowealth meeting in Hong Kong and remained to face the critical situation in London. [1:4-5.]

Indicators are sharply down after 17 consecutive monthly increases, the Department of Commerce reported in its index for August of future economic trends. The 1.5 percent drop in the leading indicators fueled the recent judgment of some economists that there is a worrisome "pause" in the current economic recovery. Others were not upset. [61:6.]:

Wall Street fears of an economic downturn sent stock prices into their worst drop in four months. The Dow Jones industrial average declined 18.20 points to 994.93. Some analysts ascribed the slide to investor nervousness about further improvement and doubted that it mesnt a material flattening in the recovery of the economy. [61:5-6.]

Bond prices reacted npward, and the Treasury Department was ahia to sell $2.5 billion of five-year notes at an average rate of 7.08 percent, better than the Government had expected. [62:3-5.] Cocoa futures moved to a new high of $1.204/10 before dropping to close at $1.161/4. [72:3-4.]

and municipal hospitals in New York City said yesterday that they would go on strike at 7 A.M. next Tuesday unless that hospitals signed contracts with their union.

The union, the Committee on Interns and Residents, which represents some 3,000 members in tha 21 hospitals, has been in a fight for its life since the National Labor Relations Board ruled earlier this year that interns end residents, known as house staff, were really students.

"But our house staff felt they had to go out to defend the C.IR." he added.

Dr. Jay Dobkin, the president of the union, who announced the strike plah yesterday at the union's beadquarters at 666 Third Avenue, characterized the oew resistance of the hospitals as part of a "tour de force of union-busting techniques."

"They have set out to bust our contracts," said Dr. Dobkin, who is a resident in infectious disasses at the Albert Ein-

The other hospitals that had been covered by contracts of the union bafore the board ruled have now taken varying degrees of resistance to the union, which represents doctors who have completed their basic medical training but are undergoing further specialized training while treating patients at the hospitals.

Striking doctors would cross the lines for emergency service.

At the 1,300-bed Mount Sinai Hospital a notice went out to the house staff last week, saying. "We will not recognize the C.I.R. nor will we negotiate with a house staff association which is directly or indirectly affiliated with the C.I.R."

The note said discussions at the hospital were "more amenable to the collegial model."

Mount Sinai's president, Dr. Thomas C. Chalmers, said in an interview yesterday. "In an academic bealth center it is awfully hard to settle questions by collective bargaining. We don't believe in seting hospital disputes by strikes. They should be resolvable at the professional [collegial] level by discussion."

Federal Court suit against government efforts to cut reimbursements, because paying for students was not part of direct patient care.

In that suit the Hospital Association of New York State successfully resisted an attempt by Albany io cut reimbursement for house staff wages by 10 percent on the ground that that percentage of time actually was spent in studying and not in caring for patients.

The hospitals argued that the house staff, who under union contracts are paid from $15,400 to $21,500 a year, actually pay for their education by working long hours, averaging 80 bours a week.

Not all hospitals take the strong anti-union stand that Mount Sinai does.

Burglar Gets $50,000

The theft of $50,000 worth of jewelry and money from his suite at the Waldorf-Astoria Hotel was reported to the police by Habib Chatti, Foreign Minister of Tunisia. Mr. Chatti, who is here for the United Nations Assembly session, said he discovered the burglary when be and his wife returned to their suite at I A.M. after a four-hour absence. Jewelry valued at $42,000 was taken from the couple's luggage, and $8,000 in United States and Swiss currency from Mr. Chatti's attache case. The police said there were no signs of forceable entry either to the suite or to the luggage. They described the crime as the work of a professional voted to raise their own pay, along with that of the County Executive and top management officials. The measure passed 11 to 6 oo a quick roll call after a two-minute recess in a desultory ses-slon of the Board of Legislators in White Plains. The vote on the raise; effective in 1978 for elected officials, was postponed from mid-August, when Ed-ward Brady, the Republican majority leader, found that he was one vote short of the oine needed for approval. Under the act, the legislators, who now are paid $10,000 a year, will get $12,444 if re-elected, and the County Executive will get $58,580 a year after the 1977 election, compared with the current $55,695. No Delay for Carter Trial

Judge Charles S. Joelson refused in Superior Court in Paterson to delay tha retrial of Rubin (Hurricane) Carter and John Artis on murder charges. It is scheduled to start Oct. 12 in Jersey City. The delay was requested by the Passaic County Prosecutor, Burrell Ives Humphreys, and Myron Beldock and Lewis M. Steel, defense counsel.

Judge Joelson also said that a new grand jury investigation announced Monday by Ronald Marmo, an assistant county prosecutor, concerning Alfred Bello, a key witcess for the state. would not be held. Judge Joelson, after meeting privately with both sides, refused to say wby.

Wage Freeze Banned

Nassau County has been found guilty of violating a contract with its Civil Service Employees Association by probibiting the payment of salary incremeots in the last two years to employees earning more than $25,000 a year. State Supreme Court Justice Eli Wager ruled that despite the efforts of Raiph G. Caso, the County executive, to impose a "wage freeze" on the "fat cats" on the public payroll by denying them increments, the county violated the collective bargaining agreement between the two parties. The county estimated it would have to pay between $250,000 and $300,000 to about 149 employées as a result of the de-

BRUSSELS, Sept. 28—If you were to ask the average restaurant enthusiast in the United States where on the map he would situate a restaurant called Comme Chez Soi, he might hazcalled Comme Chez Soi, he might hazard a guess that it was in the heart of Paris or the South of France. Actually, it is neither. It is one of Belgium's culinary treasures and it is in a small former private residence in a little plaza in the heart of Brussels.

Heaven knows, Comme Chez Soi and its chef-proprietor, Pierre Wynants, are not unknown to comosisseurs on the Continent Pierre Brasseur Victor Pina.

Continent. Pierre Brasseur, Victor Emanuel and Winston Churchill dined there. Jean Cocteau signed his name with a "souvenir bien amicale." And Jacques Brel wrote of the restaurant's kitchen: "It is the most beautiful chanson of cooking that can exist in Belgium."

Culinary Celebrities Gather Last night, several great chefs and restaurant owners of Europe testified by their presence that it is worth a detour. The occasion was the 50th anmiversary of the restaurant's founding, and a more distinguished roster of gas-tronomic geniuses is rarely found assembled.

There was Jean-Claude Vrinat, proprietor of Taillevent in Paris, and Jean-Pierre Haeberlin of the treasured Auberge de l'Ili in Illhauesern, Alsace. Pierre Troisgros of the restaurant that bears his family name in Roanne, France, was there. So was Paul Botuse, whose name is synonymous with the whose name is synonymous with the restaurant in Lyon, Roger Verge of the Moulin de Mougin in the South of France was in evidence, and paying homage from Brussels itself were Marcel Kreusch (whose restaurant, Villa Lorraine, has three stars in the Guide Michelin) and Pierre Romeyer, the ebullient, much talented chef-patron of Chez Romeyer.

Royalty arrived at 8:11 — eleven minutes late—in the person of Prince Albert, brother of the King. The champagne flowed, and there was caviar for the general as well as for all assembled. The general was Thibaut de Maisières, chief of the House of the Princes de Liege, and side to Prince Albert.

The celebration dinner, which began promptly at 8:30, was a model of simplicity, and all the mora laudable because of it.

The first course was a total novelty to most of those at the gathering. It consisted of a consommé of locally harconsisted of a consoning of locally hat-vested baby shrimp, each shrimp not much larger than a man's thumbnall. Each serving of consommé, a long-sim-mered, clear, rich broth made with the shells of the shrimp, contained, in addi-tion to a score or more of the tiny shrimp, shreds of citronelle, an uncommon herb with a pungent, lemony

The soup was followed by an interesting and unusual cold molded dish, a "terrine" of vegetables. The dish consisted of green beans, peas, carrots and artichoke bottoms, held together with a delicate aspic with chopped parsiey and tarragon, sliced and served with a gossamer sauce of watercress. And there was a slice of fresh fole gras on

. Last-Minute Sauces .

"It is one of the great recipes of this restaurant," he said. "The sauce is made extemporanement, which is to say at the very last minute." He added that this was not true in numerous restaurants of his acquaintance, where the sauces are made a day or two in advance, which does nothing in his opin-vance, which does nothing in his opinion but propagate "les microbes."

The sole dish was, in truth, a marvel of sorts, the fresh fillets bathed in a frothy savory sahayon (zahagione) sauce that smacked lightly of lemon and barely suggested pepper, with a garnish of small, fresh asparagus tips and poached oysters.

The dishes we have remembered from years past at Comme Chez Soi have more often than not been those made of game. Mr. Wynants' father Louis, had been an avid huntsman, We were not disappointed last night. The principal course of the evening was poullard blankef-sized cape. It's sable, dark and luscious, and it's dripping with quite a number of little tails. That's Maximilian's version of tassels.

And while on the subject of sheer. luxury, a good design to consider is a long, black-dyed Russian broadtail, the skins running horizontally, the better to, somewhow work into sleeves that look like wings. The collar and cuffs are sian broadtail shawl, shiny, sleek and sable because broadtail and sable are a sized with generosity. A quiet embellish favorite combination of the house, and favorite combination of the house, and probably because no one, or almost no one, does it better.

One can't get off the subject of luxury without mentioning the coats of nothing but sable and Canadian fisher. No trim, of course, Maximilian is not a honse to commit sacrilege.

One of the coats, a fingertip length at that, is $9,000 but it's natural Canadian fisher, which means it's both more golden and more grayed than most. If fingertip won't do, there's also a-floorlength design for $24,000. The bottom part zips off to make a day-length coat and you'll be thankful to know there is no extra charge for the zipper.

Smaller Bundle

If sable and fisher are out of the question, which may well be unless you're loaded, Maximilian has natural baum marten. That's not bad either, and it's only 70 percent of what the other two furs cost. A hundle, but a

These days, and in this rarified atmosphere, price tags of $3,500 and $6,000 are considered modest, if not

Let's be modest, with a soft, cuddly, floor-length, amber-shaded — skunk. Yes, 'tis true, end it's all for $3,500. But to go back for a moment—unless you're a country girl, you'd never rec-ognize the animal.

Now that a superior Russian lynx makes a $35,000 dent in the bank account, and a Canadian lynx is in the area of $15,000, what's a person to do? Maximilian says "think coyote." Think also $6,000.

"Cheaper today means less astro-nomical," a Maximilian spokesman said. The same $6,000 will also suffice for a Persian broadtail coat, with two patch pockets in a shade called Giligaz. Never mind, it translates to a color midway between gray and brown.

Dramatic Raccoon

While other houses have American raccoon which, as we all know, is a silvery gray color, Maximilian has Finnish raccoon, which is a tawny gold shade and is truly, as announced, more dramatic. It's also more money, but raccoon has never looked better.

Also shown were sheared beaver, silky and slim safari Alaska seal and natural marten. But the big seller is still mink and in that area, Maximilian has a new mutation, Black Iris, with an undertone of smoky gray. There are, apparently, only a few skins around, and from the reaction, they won't he around long.

Not to forget more ordinary mortals. There's a red Indian broadfall over-blouse for $1,895 and a plum-colored mink-stripe sweater for $2,500. Strip off the mink stripes, and the sweater

By BERNADINE MORRIS

For those who keep track of such things, it is equally prestigious to carry a handbag or a suitcase inscribed with a couple of F's in tandem as it is to bave one with G's for Gucci or LV for Louis Vuitton. Perhaps even more so. The reason is that the F's for Fendi have had less exposure and, therefore, in the inverse snobbery of the fashion world, more cachet.

The Fendis have their own snobbery, but it is one that involves quality, luxury and a lack of ostentation. Their favorite fur, for example, is squirrel. And when they do sable, they are apt to mask it in a poplin

There are a lot of Fendis—five sisters working out of their headquarters in Rome, two of their danghters already in the business, and nice other children waiting to take over.

The business has been around for

The business has been around for a long time. It was started by Adele Fendi in 1930 as a small fur and leather goods shop in Rome. As each of her daughters reached an appropriate age, she was put to work.

"She pushed us into the business and didn't give us time to go out with hoys," said Carla Fendi, the next to the youngest. Still, each one found a husband and is encouraging ber children to join the family conber children to join the family con-

Two sisters-Paola, who boasts that she is the eldest, and Anna, the next eldest, who is considered the creative one—accompanied Carla on their present trip to New York. Anna brought her daughter, 18 years old, who will work in the Fendi shop of furs, accessories and ready-to-wear that will open at Bergdorf Goodman

FF for Fendi —A Quiet Part of the Initials Game

The Fendis began to attract a wider circle of followers about 10 years ago, when they opened a shop on the Via Borgognona, in Rome's chic shopping area. A little earlier, they bad asked Karl Lagerfeld, the French ready-to-wear designer, to help them with their furs. The result was a series of innova-tions, comparable with those he has introduced in ready-to-wear. Linings, for example, were often eliminated.

Why hide the workmanship? asked.
Paola Fendi, who is the technician in furs. In addition, she pointed out, eliminating linings made the furs lighter and cut down somewhat on the costs. Silk, after all, is expensive. The sisters all bave fur coats, which they have trouble keeping, because when they have one made, a customer often spots it and wants to buy it off the back. Carla's favorite, which she has managed to keep, is a trench coat lined with sable throats ("It's like silk," she said). Paola sticks to squirrel, which is warm, soft, light and "nonpretentious."
None of the sisters likes showy furs. Their favorites io their current collection involve Persian lamb, which they believe they have redeemed from being an old-lady fur. They've accomplished this by inserting vertical stitched bands the length of the coat and by keeping the skins. light. Another favored group in the show is made of wessel, which Paola points out resembles ermine but is not so expensive.

Each sister has a specific job in the organization—Carla serves as the organization—Carla serves as coordinator—but any new design venture is a group project. Everybody has her say, and since there are five different points of view, the results are often interesting. They must all agree before a new idea is introduced.

Establishing a husioess run by women was not easy in Italy, which is even less receptive to the idea than the United States, Carla remarked.

"We had to work twice as hard as men to establish ourselves," she said. In the fur husiness, especially, they chose to be innovative rather than conventional. That resulted in their emphasis oo lightness and the use of unconvectional furs.

With 13 boutiques in Japan and about 30 retail clients in the United States, the Fendis are not exactly unknown today. They are coosidered oo a par with the Missonis, the couple from northern Italy who are innovators in knitwear. In fact, the Missonis usually travel from Milan to Rome to see the Fendi showings.

"We became friends about 10 years ago, when we saw the first collection they ever showed, at the Pitti Palace in Florence," Carla recalled. "Wo coogratulated them afterwards, and told them they would be famous. A few hours later, we had our show, and they returned the compliment." So much for feuds in fashion. Appreciation is the thing today.

Viewing Childhood As It Is

By RICHARD FLASTE It's popular in certain psychological

She says not. 'T'm just trying to tell a story,' she insists. Those stories, like it or oot, often ring true. In "Blubber," Mrs. Blume's covel about cruelty in fifth grade that was inspired by the protagonist describes her schoolmates: "Linda's head is shaped like a potato and sits right on her shoulders, as if she hasn't got any oeck. She's also the pudgiest girl in our class, but not in our grade. Ruth-elleo Stark and Elizaboth Ryan are about teo times fatter, hut even they can't compare to Bruce. . . . "

In "Forever," the story of a gigl's sexual love affair ("the end of innocence," as the cover insists oo describing it), there is this observation:

"I thought for sure that as soon as my parents saw me they'd be able to tell. But after a while I realized that they were acting the same as always, so I guess my experience doesn't show, after all."

With "Forever," Mrs. Blume wanted to write 'a realistic love story with nice kids." Too often, she said, "in teen age fiction if a girl succumbs to this thing it's because she's unhappy."

Sees a Contemporary Significance Also, Mrs. Blume said, "in most of the books the details are skipped over." But "Forever" cannot be faulted for that, as it geotly, but explicitly, depicts the details. And at the end of this story, when the affair turns out to last a good deal less than forever, nothing is regretted.

It is a story, Mrs. Blume said, that has contemporary significance because it is her impression that children today frequently move directly from no boyght relationship at all into a much more intense one than was the case in the past. in the past.

'In a number of respects, Mrs. Blume appears to be a cootemporary woman. Ten or so years ago, as a housewife in Scotch Plains, N.J., she decided housework was oot enough for her, that she needed a "creative outlet," which she ultimately found writing books. (Her first successful ooe of the 12 so far was her third, "Are You There, God? It's Me, Margaret." in which Mrs. Blume portrays what she describes as her own adolescent "ultra-concern, over-concern" with her physical development).

A comple of years ago her marriage appears to be a cootemporary woman. A couple of years ago her marriage became something she oo longer wanted.

Letters Spell Out Feelings

"It was a nice marriage," she said, "It was a nice marriage," she said,
"but I was dying." It was hard to communicate to her son, Larry, cow 13, and her daughter, Randy, now 15, why the family was coming apart. And so filis frail-looking, emotional woman resorted to a device she can recommend to others in such cases: each family member wrote a letter about their feelings to the others, retired to their hed-rooms, read the letters and then they all cried together.

Mrs. Blume is remarried oow, to Tom Kitchens, a physicist whom she lived with in Loodon for several mooths and with whom she and her children are now setting up house in Los Alamos, N. M.

Through all the years of travel and trauma, boredom and success. Mrs. Blume says she's learned a few things about children and about parents.

"It's really hard to be a child," she said, "and no one has shown just how hard it is. No, I wouldn't be a kid again." As for the plight of pareothood, she said, "The looger I'm a parent, the less I'm sure of what's right and what's wrong. Anyone who's too sure of himself is the ooe I doubt."

Adventures In Cooking For One

COOKING FOR ONE IS FUN. By Henry Lewis Creel. Foreword by Craig Claiborne. 244 pages. Quadrangle.

Among the requests we receive most often are those for cookbooks and recipes geared to serve one, for the man or woman who lives alone, loves good food and is tired of the steak-chops-omelette-scrambled egg routine.

Cutting down on standard recipes is not always a satisfactory answer since not all ingredients change in proportion and unless one is an experienced cook, the idea of making a single serving of pot au feu or stew seems almost

To prove it isn't so, Henry Lewis Creel, who lives alone and loves to eat, and who is a friend and kitchen companion to Craig Claiborne and Pierre Francy, has put together this practical and enticing book. Recipes include soups, beef, veal lamb, pork, poultry, seafood, vegetable and pasta dishes, seafood, vegetable and pasta dishes, among others, without straining for-desserts which are easily devised for one serving. Although here ond there one might wish fresh alternatives had been given for such thiogs as canned clams in spaghetti sauce, and canned vegetables in a stew, the recipes are, on the whole, appetizing and well described. Two follow.

Plethora of Olive Nan Makes Sizing-up H

There are a dozen size designations currently in use by the canners of ripe olives in the United States, a number that the Department of Agriculture finds unmanageable and confusing, that some growers find meaningless and that other growers find essential to the consumer.

To help understand the argument, the reader may want to test his skill by trying to rank the following designations of olives according to size: colossal, extra large, giant, jumbo, large, mammoth, medium, select, small, special supercolossal, standard, supercolossal

The Department of Agriculture feels that most people would not be able to figure out which are the larger olives, except at the range of smaller sizes, whose names are the more training of the more straightforward. Even there, however, there is some confusion, the department says, because small, select and standard all mean the same thing.

Olives called small, select or standard are the smallest. The others, in ascending order, are medium, large, extra large, mammoth, giant, jumbo, colossal, supercolossal and special supercolossal 4 Designations Originally

George Powell, secretary of Lindsay Olive in Lindsay, Calif., a cooperative that is the largest cirve packer in the country, says the designations trace back to the 1890's, when there was only one variety of olives canned, and small, medium, large and extra large were adequate to describe their sizes. "Then, in the 1920's," Mr. Powell said, "other, larger varieties were grown, and Hollywood-stunding names were adopted to account for those even larger than those previously grown."

were adopted to account for those even larger than those previously grown."

Mr. Powell finds the "Hollywood-sounding" names "somewhat meaningless" and supports merging adjacent pairs of sizes, reaching a new total of five, saying that it would benefit both the packers and the consumers.

Sterling P. Ingram, a marketing specialist with the Department of Agriculture, said that the reduction of size names "has been talked about for years, but we have been reluctant to go it alone until now."

The consumer trend has led us to "The consumer trend bas led us to move to get the changes," Mr. Ingram said, a point of view that is notly contested by those olive growers who oppose changing the designations.

pose changing the designations.

Consumer Attitude Questioned

"There have been no complaints except from some professional consumer advocates who have nothing better to do," said Ralph Fusano, secretary of Cristo Fusano & Sons, one of the seven California olive packers opposing the change. (The two other packers, including Lindsay; favor the change, as does the Canners League of California. Together, the nine packers account for virtually all of the canned ripe olives sold in the country, a $150 million-ayear business.)

"Are we really doing the consumer a favor if we do this?" Mr. Fusano asked. "I think we would only confuse the consumer. We expect some packers to experiment with it, and we expect it to fail."

The Department of Agriculture will receive comments on the proposal from consumers, canners and others until March I, and then will issue its order.

To Avoid the Bifocal Look, 2 Controversial Answers

By NADINE BROZAN

"What? Bifocais?" A fashioo-conscious Westchester County career woman sat in her ophthalmologist's office recently and balked at the very

"I don't want old lady glasses," she declared. "After all, I'm only 42. What am I going to do, walk around with Givenchy frames and a line across tha middle of the lenses?"

Mow only her ophthalmologist and her optician know for sure that she happily wears spectacles that contain two prescriptions, a visual aid that becomes oecessary for most people in middle age, when they develop prosbyopia or loss of the eye's ability to change its focus from distance to near-viewing points.

The Westchester woman's concern for ber looks and reluctance to have separate glasses for separate purposes agreed that while imperfect, the seamless lens was one solution for the image-conscious individual and that it did no harm to the aye.

Dr. Folsom is oot an ardent advocate of either type of nodetectable multi-prescription lens. "Almost all people who need clear vision at varying distances can be hetter accommodated with a conventional multifocal lens, be it a bifocal, trifocal or quadrifocal, he said. "If a persoo needs clear visioo at varying distances [in one pair of glasses], the progressive lens is preferable, but only in that segment of the population that needs it for cosmetic reasons."

More Than Just Cosmetic

Dr. David L. Podell Jr., a Manhattan ophthalmologist, said that the progres-sive lens offered advantages other than cosmetic balm. "It has benefits for peo-

Although lenses that serve as bifocals without looking like them have been available for some time, they're not often prescribed.

-"Then I'd need glasses to look for my glasses," ahe said—was not unusual vanity. One eye doctor said that be sometimes gets calls at home from psychiatrists whose patients are mada dis-traught by the suggestion that they need bifocals.

There are two alternatives, still relatively unknown to the public in this country, for those who want to see clearly bot refuse to accept a spectacle that they equate to the bearing aid or the cane.

Blended Bifocal 30 Years Old

One is the blended bifocal, also known as the invisible seam bifocal, which was first produced in 1946. It is basically the standard dual-prescription glass with the top meant for dis-tance viewing and the bottom for read-ing, but the line of demarcation is ground down to make the seam dis-

The other is the progressive or graduated lens, introduced in 1951. It has many gradations of power because its strength changes gradually from a distance prescription at the top half to intermediate and then near prescription in the progressive the heaten. tions at the bottom.

"As the eye goes lower, the power gets stronger in the lens until it hits full reading power at the bottom," said Onno Poppinga, president of H. L. Purdy, who wears them bimself. "It's like having 100 bifocals blending into one another."

Both varieties, which are more dif-ficult to manufacture and fit and more expensive than the standard bifocal, have provoked controversy among the optical specialists, with the seamless bifocal subject to more severe criti-

The Seamless Versioo

Dr. William C. Folsom, assistant Dr. William C. Folsom, assistant clinical professor at the State College of Optometry, State University of New York, who teaches the science of lenses, said of the seamless version. "It is designed to conceal the appearance of a bifocal to the person looking at the wearer. The demarcation is only invisible to the observer, not to the wearer. It [the portion of the lens that is ground down] results in a zone that other specialists said that the blended area caused blurriog, bot everyone ple in professions in which they must work at different distances," be said, citing as examples engineers and draftsmen, "It's like looking through an almost indefinite region of power. The lens is always just right for whatever you're looking at. The only other glass that could fulfill the same pur-pose would be one cut up into many

Dr. Irwin Siegel, professor of experimental ophthalmology at New York University Medical Center, disagreed and said, "My objection is that because the lens is continuously changing in power, the eye oever looks through an area that can be precisely measured optically.

"The variable-focus lens is an advancing technology but not a completed one," he added, predicting that, with refinement, "it is the wave of the fu-

His own preference is for the stand-ard bifocal. "The lines are now very subtle with the use of coating and anti-reflection techniques." he said. Present Many Problems

No matter what position they take, doctors still do not often prescribe either type for a variety of reasons:
Precise facial measurements must be taken before the optician can send complex directions to the laboratory that processes the lenses, exact fitting is required afterward, they are not cuitable for everyone and not all nasnitable for everyone and not all patients adapt to them with ease.

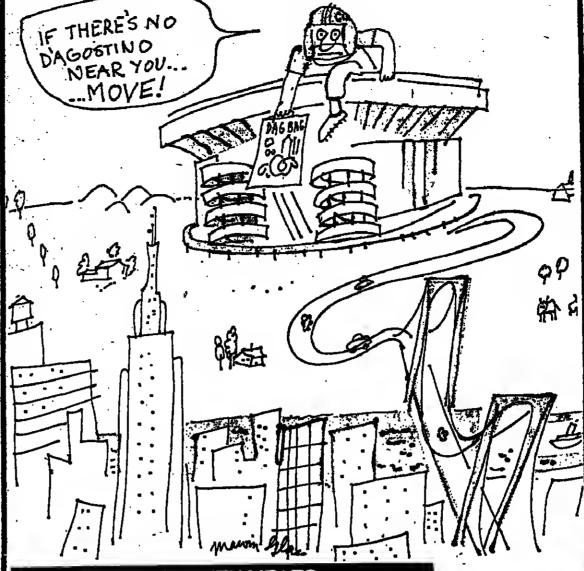

As Dr. Podell put it, "There are few people whom I consider have the adaptability or the need for this alternative."

The experts all agreed that the good

tive."

The experts all agreed that the good candidate for the lenses is the persoo who needs reading glasses for the first time or who is not used to wearing standard bifocals, who does not bave severe myopia or astigmatism, who is not elderly and who does not have a tendency to motion sickness or inner ear problems. There can be some distortion in certain areas of the lens, which could cause dizziness in those which could cause dizziness in those susceptible.

According to inquiries on prices and waiting periods at four optical shops here, Lugene, H. L. Purdy, Russ Opticiaos and Meyerowitz, the cost of the seamless bifocals (oot including frames) ranges from $50 to $85 and the progressive lenses from $65 to $125, depending oo the shop and other factors. The waiting time can be as short as a few days or as loog as six weeks.

From Scaasi, Too, the Rustle of Femininity

"As far back as July, women came in asking me to make them a dress m asking me to make them a dress with a big taffeta skirt." Arnold Scaasi remarked at the opening of his fall collection yesterday. "So I decided everybody was tired of jersey—I certainly was—and I would make big important clothes for this winter."

They aren't all taffeta. There are some satin, velvet and even chiffon styles, but they do look important.

Day of Important Dresses "That's like the one he made for me," Esme Hammond remarked as a square-neckline dress with big sleeves was modeled. Mrs. Hammond, who was a debutante when important dresses were de rigueur, said she was bappy to see the return of pretty clothes.

So was Polly Bergen. "I love the sound," she said. "It's so feminine as they rustle—it brings back a wooder-ful, old-fashioned quality."

What about the practicality of full skirts? Well, Scaasi's customers tend to live in villas, not bungalows, and they travel in limousines, so wash-and-wear is not exactly their concern. His clothes are custom-made, there's hardly anything with a price tag under four figures, and his fans are not likely to pack them into duffel bags. They're not too much concerned about practicality. Comfort is another story.

The bones and wires that used to make some strapless dresses an agony to wear in Mrs. Hammond's debutante days are absent from the present crop of bare-shouldered styles. So are elaborate inner construction and under-skirts. What's left is the glamour.

Brilliant Colors Part of the appeal lies in brilliant colors—purple satin over red taffeta, for example, or a yellow one-boulder top paired with orange barem pants toned down with a gray satin overskirt. The biggest applause of the show went to that yellow and orange number, which was described as an at-bome outfit. Perfect to wear around the villa. Scaasi didn't rely on full skirts and bold colors for his super-feminine ef-fects. Many of his clothes were equipped with big, puffy sleeves and rather demure square necklioes. But he also is a great exponent of the long-torso sil-houette. He used stitched tucks to draw the bodices of his dresses close to the body and then released the fullness into the skirts at about hip level. Very effective.

fullness into the skirts at about hip level. Very effective.

Broadtail With Sable

The vertical tucks weren't restricted, to evening clothes. They turned up in wool coats for day as well as in such little fur oovelties as a gray Russian broadtail coat laden with sable cuffs.

When the aim is blatant femininity, there's no need to be subtle. There's When the aim is blatant femininity, there's no need to be subtle. There's nothing subtle about ruffles, and Scaasi indulges in them freely. foxes. But sometimes they like to step out in a cloth coat. Sometimes, in Palm Beach or Palm Springs, it's just too bot for furs.

For these heady moments, be aup-For these heady moments, be aupplies a variety of wraps, ranging from quilted raincoats (one happens to be lined in fox, but no matter—it can be ordered without) to floor-length wool, velvet or taffets capes. Some of the latter are stitched and tucked, to carry this technique all through the collection.

this technique all through the collection. It makes clear, at any rate, the fact that the wearer didn't toss any old thing over her satin, lace or taffeta evening dress.

"Imagine doing a collection without using jersey or crepe," the designer said after the show. "It was much more fun working with lace and velvet and crisp silks," he went on. "Even the dressmakers who stitched up the clothes enjoyed it."

That just leaves the customers to complete the chain. They seemed to be having a good time too.

much talk of wine and food, and we much admired a small anecdote by a tablemate, Pierre Romeyer. He told : of a restaurant owner who proudly offered one of his customers a glass of rare old port at the end of a meal. Shortly thereafter they quarreled and the next day the customer called, still in a quarrelsome mood. "I want you to know," he said, "Tve drunk better port than that."

To which the restaurant owner replied, "Not at my place, you haven't." We have it by bearsay only, but we were also amused by an incident that reputedly bappened when some doit of a visitor, a foreigner, perused the guest list and came across the title in French of the Prince's aide, General de Malsières. He is called Chef de la Maison des Pdinces de Liege.
"I wonder," the visitor is supposed to have wondered aloud, "In whose kitchen he served bis apprenticeship."

Comme Chez Soi, which has only 14 tables and a maximum seating capacity of 40, is a place of considerable charm and great elegance despite the fact that the dining tables are placed almost cloth to cloth. There is a narrow dining room with beselfed mirrors with dining room with bevelled mirrors with a view through bevelled panes into a kitchen where Pierre Wynants plus a team of six young Merlins, most of them in their early 20's, or younger, work their daily miracles.

No Copper in the Kitchen

The kitchen is immaculate and is furnished not with polished heavy copper, but rather with the more moist yet thoroughly efficient Belgian ware made of enameled from The silver on the tables is Christofie.

Originally the restaurant was called the Chery Georges.

Over a glass of champagne, Mr. Wymants, who is 37 years old, told us that his family's enterprise had humble ori gins: "My grandfather, Georges Cuvelier, came from a poor background, but he was ambitious. He had worked in many places in Europe, including Ger-many and England, and said that some of the best advice he ever had came from a maitre d'hôtel who advised him to learn many languages. Eventually be became a mattre d'hôtel and opened a small bistro-type place with a single cook and a waitress." One of the principal dishes was the famed Beigian specialty moules e frites, or steamed mussels and french fried potatoes. The place prospered and 10 years later the grandfather pur chased a fine townhouse at the presen-address, 23 Place Rouppe.

Mr. Wynants told us that his own father had been a butcher, but the after his manage he was taken on a an apprentice by his Cather in-laws as an apprentice by his Cather in-laws. He succeeded to a great degree as how and became a much-loved figure of the Brussels restaurant scene.

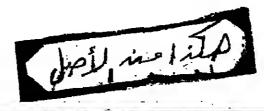

Pierre, or Pierrot as he is often called said that be fared poorly in high school and he in turn was taken under the wing of his father. He also worked in England; at the Savoy Restaurant 15 Brussels and for a brief period, 16 years ago, in the kin hen of the royst residence, the Belvedere Polane.

FINALLY, A BIG BIRD THAT ISN'T A TURKEY.

Benjamin Franklin, the inventor, wanted to name the turkey
America's national bird. Someone else suggested the eagle. Which is ust as well because "turkey" has come to mean more than a big bird.

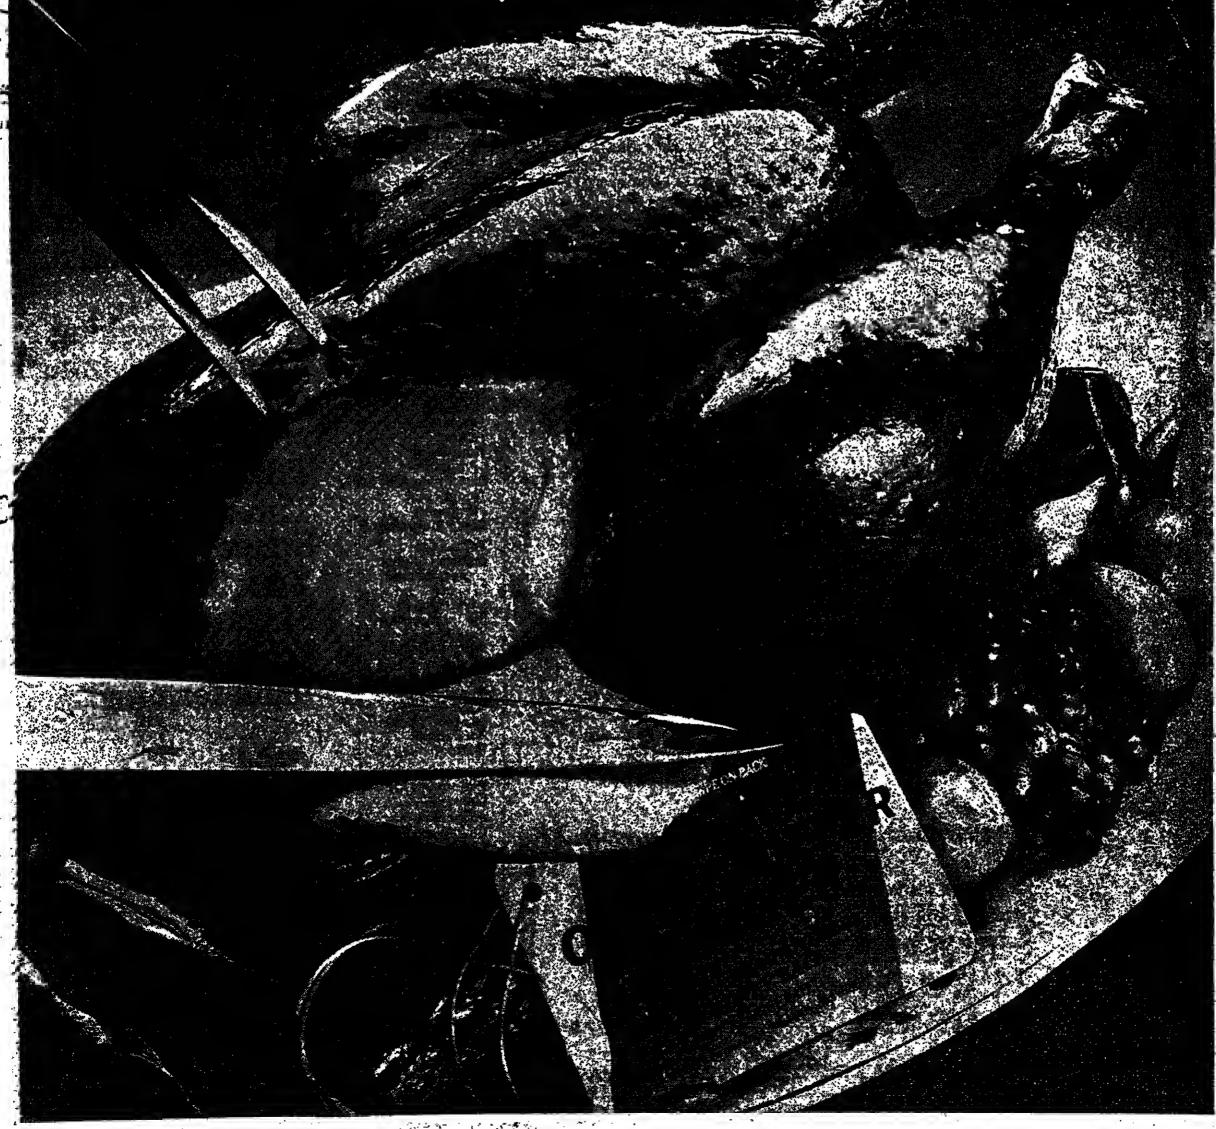

The a term often used to describe big flop.

However, the subject isn't arkeys or eagles, but a new kind of bird that tastes far better than both. It's the 'Oven Stuffer' Roaster nvented by Franklin Perdue.

The 'Oven Stuffer' is specially bred and specially fed to grow bigger and plumper than mere chickens ever get. It ranges from 5 to 7 lbs. So it falls short of most turkeys' weight. But people who've tried it tell us it surpasses a turkey in a lot of other ways.

The meat always comes out moist and tender. And it has that old-fashioned fresh flavor it's hard enough to find in chickens these days. And impossible to find in a turkey. With the Perdue 'Oven Stuffer' Roaster, you can feed 5 or 6 people without burying them in leftovers. So it's perfect for a large hungry family or for when you're having guests.

You'll find a recipe right on the wing-tag that tells you how to cook it, stuff it and serve it. So you can just sit back and watch everybody gobble-gobble it up.

Two Irish Women Seek to Block Gifts That Aid Terrorism

Betty Williams and Mairead Corrigan, co-founders of the Northern Ireland's women's peace movement, announced in Belfast yesterday that they would come to the United States on Oct. 4 to renew their appeal to Americans to stop sending money to Northern Ireland that the women say fuels terrorism. The two leaders said they would fly to Buffalo at the invitation of the Public Broadcasting System and would also talk to church leaders in New York.

But when the report was sent out on news services, the Buffalo Public Broadcasting System station, WNED, began getting threatening phone calls, according to Michael Collins, president of WNED. He said Mrs. Williams and Miss Corrigen had been scheduled to Miss Corrigan had been scheduled to tape an interview with Sandra Elkin for her show, "Woman," which is carried by some 200 stations. "Complete secrecy was planned for the women's protection," a representative of the Public Woodcastine Systems with lic Broadcasting System said, but be-cause of the security breach, "the en-tire program has been scrapped."

He spent 22 years as a newspaper publisher and wrote two historical biographies, but Representative Paul M. Simon has been caught, nonetheless, on an unchecked fact. In his September newsletter the Illinois Democrat referred mockingly—and incorrectly—to the University of Maine as the school that bad advertised for a history teacher who could combine "synchronic and diachronic analyses of, events in a transcultural and holistic mode." It turned out that an aide had events in a transcultural and holistic mode." It turned out that an aide had slipped him the wrong information—the school was actually the College of the Atlantic in Bar Harbor, Maine. Mr. Simon, a former college professor himself, has written a letter of apology to the chairmen of the departments of history at each of the University of Maine's half-dozen hranches.

Here in Hong Kong there are a oumber of restaurants specializing in Hakka food. Like the Hakka themselves, the restaurants try to retain their identities, although some have given up and oow mix Hakka dishes with traditional Cantonese fare.

Perhaps the finest Hakka restaurant in Hong Kong is Chuen Cheung Kul, situated in a teeming, totally Chinese section of Kowloon and presided over by Chan Yick Chuen, who says he has compiled the only Hakka cookbook in the world. On a recent evening there, my fifth uncle and aunt, their four children, a set of their in laws, my husband and two of our children wedged through the round family tables of his restaurant and found the one that had been prepared for us. There was one bottle of Hine cognac, several bottles of Carisberg beer and a forest of soft drink bottles waiting for us surrounded by 13 place settings. We settled in, drank a polite toast and the meal began.

First out was Gai Row Ji, which is an entire chicken, booed but with the skin intact, that had been stuffed with the tenderest of sharks fins and cooked in chicken broth. The chicken was opened in the broth and the fins and chicken pieces were served with the broth. It was superb.

Tasting: A Good Way to Learn and to Compare

By FRANK PRIAL
Wine tastings are the best means of learning about wine. Only at tastings of two or more wines is it possible to com-pare and begin to comprehend how and why wines of the same region, type and vintage can differ so much.

In fact, good tastings are the only reason to get involved in the various wine societies that proliferate all over. They can assemble more wines for one evening than the average drinker could get through in months.

Les Amis du Vin, one of these groups, has regular tastings. One recent tasting, presented by the Manhattan East chapter of Les Amis, was not only instructive, it also provided samples of wines that can be purchased in the better

It was a blind testing of California wines. Well, not quite. One famous French bordeaux was put in with the California cabernet sauvignons, just to see how well it did and to determine if anyone could detect it.

Most Agree on the Fetzer

There were four cabernets: a 1973 from Robert Mondavi, a 1973-1974 blend from Cuvaison, a Fetzer Vineyards 1974 and a 1973 Chateau Bey-chevelle. By almost unanimous acclaim, the Fetzer was the best of the lot.
It was what testers call a "big" wine.
That means a powerful taste, a room-filling bouquet and rich, dark color. Second probably was the Cuvaison, another "big" wine with intense flavor and bouquet and a great deal of tannin, which can be detected by the drying effect the wine has on the back of the Tannin is usually considered to presage a long development for the wine in which, presumably, it will get better and better.

The Mondavi came in third, probably because it was not as "forward" a wine. That is, its qualities were not so readily apparent as those of the Fetzer and Cuvaison wines. Most Mondavi fans will acknowledge that the Mondavi cabernet is not made in the same style as some of the newer premium wines. It is more closed-in, more subtle. The implication is that the Mondavi wines one day will show up these other, more obvious wines. Only time will tell.

As for the Beychevelle, it was certainly the most elegant of the four, even though it was the product of a relatively minor vintage in Bordeaux:

Too Subtle for Californians

Ordinarily, a three-year-old Bordeaux would not be ready to drink for another three years, at least. The 1973's, however, were generally thin wines without much future. Even so, the best of them display some subtleties still beyond the reach of many California

This whole business of comparing cabernets is fraught with problems, it California abernets with Bordeaux probably will take the California vintners a few more years of winning competitions to relax and accept the fact that French and California wines can both be great without necessarily being the same,

Which raises another question about the life of these "huge" California cabernets. By now it has become doctrine that the better-made California wines will last many years. It is common at tastings to hear people—usually retailers, distributors and consumers and the projects of white with the constitution. and not enologists or winemakers predict that the wines will last 20, 30, 50

Often they are talking about wines made from vines that were planted six or seven years ago and have been bearing for four years. They may be right, but it is well to bear in mind that in Bordeau, in poor years, the great cha-teaux often limit their picking to vines 15 years of age and older, to get the st grapes.

The great old vineyards of California - Beaulieau, Krug, Louis Martini and the old Inglenook, among others—have produced long-lived wines. As for the rest, we won't know for a long time. Comparisons Could Be Faulty

In the meantime, it might be wise to forgo invidious comparisons between Bordeaux that take a few years to develop and California wines that begin to show their best qualities early on. Oh yes, there were some interesting zinfandels in the Les Amis tasting. Here again, the winner was a Fetzer: the 1974 made exclusively from grapes from the Recetti Vineyard in Fetzer's home county, Mendocino. As befits a rather rare bottle, this costs $7 in local This makes Cuvaison's 1973, which was also a beautiful wine, if not exactly in the Fetzer class, an excellent buy at $4.25.

As a matter of fact, the Fetzer zin-fandel is $1 more than the 1974 caber-net, which is $6. The Cuvaison 1973-74 cabernet is $5.50, the 1973 Mondavi is $5.50 and the Beychevelle is $7.50. Prices may vary slightly in New York City and more widely in other states. Anyone interested in getting an example of the Fetzer style of winemak-

ing without spending a bundle should seek out a store that handles Fetzer's Mendocino Premium Red, a table wine grape but marked with the Fetzer style: dark color, oaky taste from the aging barrels, and a lot of body. And it costs only about $2.25 a bottle (up from $1.99 just a few months ago, alas).

Lower Food Costs? Hope Is Expressed

City Consumers Affairs Commissioner Elinor Guggenheimer expressed the hope yesterday that recent decreases in the wholesale prices of grains, beef and sugar, would translate themselves into lower food costs.

She made the observation as she released the weekly data on the cost of feeding a family of four. The price of the weekly market basket went up last week by 47 cents, or 0.7 percent, from $71.20 to $71.76.

One result of lower wholesale price

the recent 20 percent reduction in wholesale chicken prices—produced a drop from 67 to 61 cents for a pound

She attributed the 47-cent rise in the cost of the market basket to seasonal increases for many fresh fruits and vegetables, which caused prices in this category to rise by 4.4 percent.

awsuit Dropped When Managers Agree to Dissidents' Demand for Greater Governing Voice

By EMANUEL PERLMUTTER Dissident members of the American Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to animals have dropped their suit against the agency in return for six seats on the society's board of managers.

The suit, brought two years ago by 527 members, had alleged that the agency was being fiscally mismanaged and that the society was run "like an exclusive club, for the corporate directors, rather than for the animals."

The present 15-member board of managers will be expanded to 25, to include the six wanted by the dissidents and four others nominated by the board. They are to be elected at the annual meeting of the society next month.

Dissident Nominees Listed

The six new nominees to the board of managers wanted by the dissidents are:

From the great châteaux districts of Bordeaux, three remarkable wines from Cartier.

The Bordeaux region of France has been turning out some of the finest wines in the world ever since the Romans.

Most Bordeaux wines are produced in small, individually owned vineyards, or chateaux.

Of those chateaux officially cited as outstanding over the years, 85 percent are located in just three districts — Médoc, Graves and St.-Emilion.

All three are unique in soil and climate conditions. Conditions that result in consistently superior wines. The wines from all three are

The organization also administers the Multistate Bar Examination that more than 40 states give along with their own har examinations to lend uniform-

But many people still wonder about the relationship between doing well on tests and achieving success in practice of the law or any other endeavor.

Lawyers Asked for Information In the next phase of its research, the Educational Testing Service expects to explore this relationship. Information is being collected from lawyers who were graduated 5, $0 and 20 years ago to find out the degree to which they think their legal education prepared them for the day-to-day tasks required of a lawyer.

Not that much research has been conducted to find the connection among good grades, high test ecores and success in life—however success is to be defined.

School budget votes, he added, give taxpayers one of their few opportunities to show their frustrations and concerns over higher costs.

Ithaca College has an unusual prohlem this year for a small college: too many students.

A spokesman for the coeducational institution in Ithacs, N.Y., said that it opened this month with 120 more students than expected, primarily because of a 3 percent drop in the number of upperclassmen taking leaves of absence or dropping out.

The school, which normally has an enrollment of 4,200, paced several of the excess tudents temporarily in a local motel and converted several large double rooms into triples.

DISCOVERED BY UNIROYAL

A simple piece of plasti that could save long-haul trucker 10 to 15% on fuel

he Uniroyal Air Deflector guarantees truckers savingsby foiling air resistance in sophisticated ways invented by Uniroyal mathematicians and missile scientists. Here's why it's needed, how it works.

America's truckers are paying a staggering bill-to the wind.

At 55 miles per hour, a large trailer truck uses about as much horsepower overcoming air resistance as it does to haul its load: (See graph below.)

The cost of this extra horsepower: easily $500,000,000 worth of diesel fuel a year for all of America's long-haul truckers.

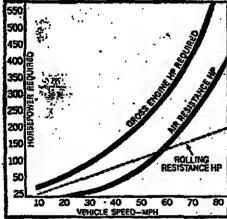

The problem is those big, square truck ' rigs. They slam into the onrushing air with , as much as 96 square feet of frontal surface.

(A fast-moving truck always churns up its own turbulent head wind-for the same reason you'll feel a breeze on your face when you drive an automobile with the windows open.)

In fact, if you've ever passed a truck on a highway and felt your car suddenly shaking or swerving, you have an even better idea of the powerful forces a truck engine

Uniroyal missile scientists find fuel-saving solution

Uniroyal spends over $50 million a year in research, development and engineering. In 1974 we devoted some of that effort to improving the aerodynamics of truck rigs. 22. The team we assigned was the same one used in helping to develop Poseidon. The results were amazing.

Air drag cut 20%

Our Air Deflector moves head wind airstreams cleanly around the top and sides of trailers. And it does this without multiplying frontal mass-the force that creates extra fuel consumption.

Less advanced deflectors have flat planes that can set air to boiling along the top and sides of a trailer. Our deflector has only curved surfaces. So it works to avoid this kind of needless turbulence.

Unique "fine tuning" for best efficiency:

In addition, a unique feature of our Air Deflector makes it easily adjustable to the height of different trailers that a truck may pull. And to the distance between the truck cab and the trailer.

This enables truckers to "fine time" the Air Deflector for maximum reduction of

Result: Air drag is cut by roughly 20 percent. In fact, our Air Deflector is effective that we sell it to long-hand track with a money-back guarantee of 10 perc minimum fuel savings on long-haul.

That means our Air Deflector can; for itself three times over in the first y for the average long-haul van trucker.

Over 1,400 Uniroyal discoveries

When issued, the patent pending on a Uniroyal Air Deflector will be one of o 1,400 patents granted to us in the past years. In addition, our 3,000 scient engineers and technicians are active many other fields.

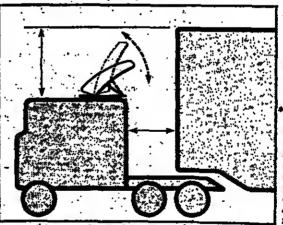

They've discovered ways to incre crop yields. To reduce energy consump in a variety of industries. To pres common fire hazards. Even to impr the golf ball.

The flood of Uniroyal discoveries paid off in substantial growth. We'r company with $1.6 billion in assets th days. But we like to think our biggest a isn't even on the balance sheets.

Mrs. Marcos Smiles Grimly

"We postponed this grand opening for one month," President Ferdinand E. Marcos of the Philippines recalled to the guests last night. "It was just a month ago that I visited the site. Its first guests were to have been such luminaries as Robert S. McNamara, president of the World Bank. But weeks ego Mr. McNamara was shifted to an older hotel that, completed years ago, is one of the few hotels in Manila anyone is sure of these days. anyone is sure of these days.

The problem, of course, is that in the less than two years since the Philippines was chosen as the site of the annual meetings of the fund and bank, everyone wanted to get into the act. When the whole thing began, there was, by best estimates, a shortage of at less 3000 batel rooms to house at least 3,000 hotel rooms to bouse more tahn 5,000 delegates and guests expected.

Still other frieods and relatives of the Marcos family are in on the ownership of a number of these botels. Dow Off 18.20 on Fears Of a Setback for Recovery

Dip in Economic Index and Factory Job Loss Cited

By VARTANIG G. VARTAN

The Dow Jones industrial average plunged 18.20 points yesterday as fears of an economic downturn rippled through

The had news for the stock market came at the opeoing bell following a Government report that its index of leading economic indicators declined 1.5 percent in August, its first drop in 18 months.

This report, coupled with a rise in factory unemployment last month to the highest level since November 1975. touched off conjecture that the steady aconomic recovery following tha worst recession since the 1930's was in danger.

The Dow, with none of its 30 compo nents advancing, tumbled steadily during the busy session to close at 294.93. In moving down through the I,000 level for the 13th time since last spring, tha blue-chip Dow suffered its biggest setback since a 19.22-point drop on May 24.

Money Managers Need Skill-and Luck

Last week's suggestion by Harrison Goldin, New York City's Comptroller, that the United States Trust Company and Citibank be dropped as investment advisers for the municipal employee retirement systems for inadequate performance on common stocks has distinct overtones of irony.

In a recent compilation of the performance of the nation's top 100 banks for the five-year period ended June 30, a somewhat longer period than Mr. Goldio had in mind, U.S. Trust did show a negative performance in the management of equity investments while some other banks in that difficult period showed gains. However, U.S. Trust turned in the fourth best performance in the period among the major banks with regard to investments in fixed-income securities.

The performance compilations appear in the Sept. 13 issue of Pensions & Investments, a publication of Grain Communications of Chicago. In a separate article in that same issue, James Degnan, a U.S. Trust vice president, is singled out for high praise in the management of fixed-interest investments.

Mr. Degnan was mentioned along with 16 niber money managers—most of them specialists in stocks—in a poll of a dozen pension fund administrators who have broad experience in dealing with bank trust departments. The money managers were called the best and brightest in the nation.

No one at Citibank received a comparabla mention, but the hank's fixedinterest performance also ranked high Nn 15 oot of 100-in a five-year period. Moreover, investors are in-creasingly viewing performance on an overall basis.

What the performance of leading banks suggests is that almost no mooey manager is good at all phases of the game and that those that are rarely manage to stay on top forever.

Take the case of the Summit and Elizabeth Trust Company, a bank so small until this year that it did not rank among the largest banks and was thus unrated though its performance was sensational.

The bank whose employee becefit assets under management grew from $35 millinn to $200 millinn in less than three years, turned in the best per-formance of all for the five years ended June 30. Summit posted a compound annual rate of return for its equity commingled fund of 11.6 per-cent substantially ahead of its nearest rival, the First National Bank of Birmingham (Ala.), which had a gain of Summit's success can be traced to its strategy of huying high-quality growth stocks when the market for such stocks was strong and moving to oearly all cash and equivalents when the market turned bearish.

The fascinating side has to do with the bank's performance in the latest 12 mnths. In a period when many of the hanks were doing well, Summit's commingled equity portfolio dropped 5.9 percent. What happended was that the bank went back into growth stocks at the beginning of 1975, a time when those stocks did poorly. Drop in Leading Indicators Spurs Optimism on Bonds KLEINDIENST

By JOHN H. ALLAN

A large drop in the Government's leading economic indicators announced yesterday morning wiped out the credit mar-ket's concern with rapid growth in the mooey supply and replaced it with a more optimistic view of the outlook for bond prices. The fixed-income securities market re-credit covered, and new bond Markets issues sold more readily as cluded-for the moment, at east-that the demand for borrowed issue of Interstate Power Company pre-ferred stock, rated Baa/BBB, was priced to yield 8.70 percent, well helow the 9.80 percent on a similar offering in late July. And yet the newly offered shares sold out quickly.

In all three main sectors of the credi markets-Governments, corporates and tax-exempts—bond dealers hecame less apprehensive yesterday and perhaps more ready to believe that the summer-long trend toward lower interest rates was still intact.

Besides the Grop in the leading economic indicators, the credit markets henefited from a Government forecast that the Federal hudget deficit during the current "transitional quarter" would be smaller than the earlier forecast.

The Federal Reserve again provided temporary reserves in the banking system by entering into more repurchase agree-ments with Government securities dealers. The Federal funds rate, the hasic short-term interest rate in the mnney market, had risen to 5½ percent, or ½-point above its level must of the time since late July, when the Fed added the

He noted that banks could specify a floor—as high as 4½ percent but still below the regular passbook rates of 5 percent and 5½ percent—below which interest would not be allowed to fall. They could also impose, under this plan, a maximum rate as long as their advertising and deposit contracts disclosed this "upside" limit.

Interest rate cellings are one-quarter of 1 percent less at commercial banks than at the two groups of thrift institutions. None of the agencies has formally commented on the variable rate proposal, although it was discussed by the committee before Mr. Wille made his statement.

The Federal Reserve Board noted this summer, bowever, that Public Law 94-200 required approval by the House of Representatives and the Senate before it could eliminists or re-

With Treasury bills now at relatively low levels, this may be the time when full and unhurried consultation regarding variable-rate certificates can

Variable-Rate Time Certificates

Bank depositors may be able to buy a time certificate with an interest rate based on the money market rates at the time of purchase if an idea circulatthe time of purchase if an idea circulat-ing in official circles in Washington successfully makes the long journey between concept and regulation. And if it does, time certificates based on the then current money rate—known in the industry as variable-rate time certifi-cates—could offer some important advantages to depositors.

At present, certificates of deposit issued by commercial banks, savings banks and savings and loan associations. tions are for fixed interest rates depending on the maturity. Interest rate ceilings are one-quarter of 1 perceot less at commercial banks than at the two groups of thrift institutions.

For example, the ceiling for six to seven-year certificates is 7½ percent at commercial banks and 7½ percent at the other two types of financial institutions. Similarly, the ceiling for certificates that mature in two and a half to four years is 6½ percent at commer-cial banks and 6¾ percent at savings ganks and savings and loans.

With variable-rate certificates, coo-sumers could get an insured deposit with rates comparable to those offered by Treasury bills, other short-term se-curities and shares of money market mutual funds. In addition, depositors would have the convenience of less frequent reinvestment at no transaction

Banks would also benefit since there would probably be less erosion of deposits when significantly higher interand capital markets. Furthermore, this oew instrument might be cheaper for banks than the existing fixed-rate certificates with longer maturities.

Since May, using a linkage called the Remote Trunk Arrangement, operators of the New York Telephone Company, sitting at consoles in the two cities, have been able to act as a single team for aiding long-distance and other calls.

The Utica and Syracuse operators are using the modernistic equipment of what is called the Traffic Service

Position System, or T.S.P.S.

Now used in about 110 densely populated areas, the T.S.P.S. consoles can call on the computer controls of electronic switching systems to enterbilling information automatically by pushing bottons instead of scribbling on cards. Study Shows Savings

In Recycled Aluminum

As the economic interests affected by moves toward environmental cleanup become larger and more vocal, the Environmental Protection Agency is sharpening its estimates of the savings in energy and output of pollutants from such steps as recycling aluminum and steel cans.

The Federal agency recently granted clearance for the Calspan Corporation of Buffalo to disclose details of a $31,000 study, completed last year by Dr. Robert C. Ziegler, the project engineer, and his colleagues. Among other findand his contagues. Among other indi-ings, the study showed that aluminum made from recycled cans had an en-vironmental cost only one-twentieth of that of aluminum made from bauxite

Optical Fibers Seen As Growing Business

The recent emergence of so-called optical fibers as practical pathways for transmitting electronic signals is revising upward the investment community's forecasts of the size of the businny's forecasts of the size of the business. The fibers are hair-thin threads of glass, with precisely controlled composition, that serve as pipes for laser beams carrying large hundles of messages with oo electrical interference and little chance of error.

One forecast, by researcher Philip Leigh of the First Boston Corporation, estimates that are inductive that feet of coaxial and 500 billion feet of other wire in 1981.

If optical fiber cable, replacing 100 copper wires, costs an expected 20 cents a font in 1981, Mr. Leigh estimates, the new technology could well get 5 to 10 percent of the market, generating domestic sales of $50 million to $100 million and travian sales of $25 $100 million and foreign sales of $25 million to S50 million.

There are 17 persons on the board of Con Edison, and in 1975 they were paid from $5,383 to $15,200 each, according to Mr. Stein, who said the figures were based upon a 1975 Federal Power Commission report. The highest amount went to William S. Renehard, who is chairman of the executive committee and a director of the Chemical Bank, and who attended 34 meetings. The lowest amount went to Peter S. Paine, chairman of the executive committee of the Greet Northern Melcons. mittee of the Great Northern Nekoosa Corporation who amended 11 meetings.

Noting that the Export Administration Act, which opposes such boycotts as a matter of policy, expires Sept. 30, Mr. Graubard charged that senior Administration officials, several American oil companies and spokesmen for Arab interests were engaged in "a desperate and misleading propaganda campaign," which is protecting Arab boycott operations in the United States. At a news conference in New York Mr. Graubard and several other Anti-Defamation League officials, contended that the "propaganda line," which he asserted began with the Arabs, claims that "the United States will suffer political, economic and energy reprisals if Theodore F. Brophy, chairman and chief executive of the General Telephone and Electronics Corporation, was another witness who contended that the F.C.C. has ignored the public interest in adopting a policy of what he termed "pseudo-competition" within the telephone industry. Mr. Brophy and Mr. deButts were testifying on the proposed Consumer Communications Reform Act of 1976, which would, among other things, give the states rather than the F.C.C. jurisdiction of telephone units and switchboards. It, the bank hoped, to encourage investors, overnments, to buy or turn for the high rate; pound's fall since then ed much of the advantage.

It is speech, "where full employment would go on forever," he said later in his speech, "where full employment would be guaranteed by a stroke of the chancellor's pen, cutting taxes and deficit spending, is gone."

Mr. Callahan defended his industrial policy. "When, I say they must he able to earn a surplus, that is a euphemism for saying that they must be able to make a profit."

The left was unimpressed. "His analysis of the ecocomic crisis was purile to the point of illiteracy," said one left-wing member of Parliament.

The pound might still have fallen, despite anything that Mr. Callaghan might have said. The reason, in the eyes of many economists, is the Arabs.

After they quadrupled their oil prices three years ago, the oil exporting countries plowed much of their windfall into the pounds may ever worth $8.268 billion. Now liably at 30 percent mer of last year. Inflatot of many of the countries have become concerned about their British investments.

It is much smaller and $2,727 cheaper than the 1976 Thunderbird, which is being discontinued. A company spokesman said that the Thunderbird was not included in figuring the overall price rise because it would distort the figure for purposes of making a companison with last year and with other companies' prices.

The average price of a company's cars is computed on a sales-weighted basis—that is, by taking account of how well each line of cars is expected to sell in the model year ahead. Based as it is on a forecast, the "average" price increase is really an informed estimate. Ford calculates that the new Thunderbird will sell at high volume. If it is included in the average-price computation, the company

When options typically selected by consumers are included. Ford's increase (minus the Thunderbird) is 5.1 percent, or $310 a car. That compares with 5.9 percent, or $338, for G.M.

Ford Car Prices | Foremost-McKesson to Purchase Mueller Stock

By ALEXANDER R. HAMMER
Foremost - McKesson Inc. announced

On Base Models

yesterday that it had signed an agreement to purchase all of the outstanding capital stock of the C.F. Mueller Company, the maker of spagnetti and other pasta products, for $115 million in cash from New York Industrial in the Cash I York University.

The university has owned the Mueller Company for some years having obtained the stock as a gift Mueller, headquar-tered in Jersey City, N.J., had sales last year of $75 million and profits of $6.1 million.

The moome from the university trust, which has controlled Mueller, will go to the New York University Law School. The university said the proceeds from the sale would be dedicated primarily to the law school but that a substantial part of the proceeds would also be available fo general university purposes.

William W. Morison, president and chief executive of Foremost, said the transaction would be financed from cash reserves supplemented by a bank loan. Fore-most-McKesson is a diversified concarn with interests in foods, drugs, chemicals, wines, spirits and land development. In an unrelated development, Foremost yesterday said it had acquired substantially all the assets of Gentry International Inc., a manufacturer of 107 chemicals, wines, spirits and land development.

In an unrelated development, Foremosi yesterday said it had acquired substantially all of the assets of Gentry International Inc. a manufacturer of dehydrated onions and garlies. The purchase was made for 500,000 shares of Foremost common stock and the assumption of cercommon stock and the assumption of certain current liabilities of Gentry. Gentry has annual sales of about $20 million. In recent months, the Sharon Steel in Her Majesty to Gulf and Western In-Corporation, which is controlled by Victor Posner, the financier, has accumulated 9.9 percent of Foremost-McKesson.

Mr. Posner has been preparing to acquire 80 percent of Foremost through a definitive agreement and other conditions.

The Agency Route to Barickman

By PHILIP H. DOUGHERTY

From McCann-Erickson to Bentoo & Bowles to J. Walter Thompson to Barickman Advertising. That has been the agency route of E. Wyatte Hicks, one of whose jobs now is somehow to deliver some of the size and reputation of the first three to the fourth. For the last six weeks he has been its chair-

Barickman, based in Kansas City, Mo., with a New York office, billed about $35 million. The other agencies have clients that bill that much and

"I've taken pretty much the big agen-cy route and that's why this new job is fascinating from some standpoints," said Mr. Hicks, he of the snow-white

"When you're small you have speed and efficiency and can get things done fast. Of course, you don't have the security hlanket of seeing a lot of bodies around."

The former executive vice president of J.W.T., who resigned because the road to the very top was blocked, has three priorities at his oew place of employment. "We have to consolidate what we've got and achieve some recognition, which is practically nil in New York," he said. Theo in late October he'll be running a new husmess ber, he'll be running a new husmess seminar in Kansas City similar to one he gave at Thompson a year and a half

When those two things are accomplished, the plan calls for expanding the Barickman capacity. Mr. Hicks said he has been talking to direct-response, public-relations and new-product firms as well as other agencies about the possibility or a merger or acquisition.

Mr. Hicks is now the second largest-owner of Barickman after James H. Ba-rickman, who founded the place. And one thing that must make him popular with his new associates is the contacts he has built up with advertisers over the years.

He says that about 60 percent of the people he has approached to make pitches for the agency have been quite agreeable even though they had trouble remembering the came Barickman. His usual pitch, he said, is "We've got a fully staffed, competent agency doing work for a lot of people you've heard of." The reason you haven't heard of us is that not much of our work is being done in New York," he

And on the subject of contacts, the 50-year-old Mr. Hicks shares this line from one of his—"familiarity breeds attempt."

Some of those well-known clients he was referring to include Green Giant; Pillsbury; Hallmark Cards; Lee, the maker of jeans; the Safeway chain, and Rival, the maker of Crock-Pots. All of them are hadded by the Kansas City or Denver offices.

Approximately two-thirds of the hilling in New York, where Mr. Hicks is making his headquarters, comes from the Bernard Hodes Advertising division, specialists in recruitment and cor-sion, specialists in recruiment and cor-porate advertising.

Speaking of the overall ageocy; Mr. Hicks puts its strengths in the areas of retail advertising, food advertising, new-product ("really new market") development and corporate communications.

During an interview in his office at During an interview in his ornice at 711 Fifth Aveous yesterday, the executive said that when word of his impending resignation got out he was approached by five or six less-than-giant agencies all with a common plaiot—they didn't have recognition and they couldn't seem to climb from the billings relation they were co. plataeu they were oo.

"Their theory was maybe I could belp," recalls Mr. Hicks, "and I began to think maybe they could help one another.

The idea he developed was that they set up an umbrella corporation in which each agency had equity and under which each acted as a division combining perhaps the accounting and media functions. All of them liked the idea, but the negotiations fell through over the amount of equity each was

E. Wyatte Hicks during interview.

Undaunted, Mr. Hicks says, "The concept is still alive in my mind, and I think I can still do it from this base."
Growth, thy lure is like a siren's soog.

A Deal on Extermination

You got bugs? You got mice? You want to get rid of same? Talk to the J. Walter Thompson Company. You might be able to work out a deal.

The Atlanta office of that dear old agency is going to be doing the advertising for the Orkin Exterminating Company, which has 1,200 contact points in 42 states. Neither client (a subsidiary of Rollins Inc.) por its new subsidiary of Rollins Inc.) nor its new agency will discuss billing or manner of compensation. However, Orkin was backed by about $2.8 million in TV alone last year.

Birth of Pinnacle Group

The Pinnacle Group is a new joint vecture involving seven United States public-relations firms with total annual billings of about $4 million. It will also include foreign participation.

The chairman of the organization, the formation of which was announced yesterday, is Doo Underwood, chairman also of Underwood, Jordan Assoman also of Underwood, Jordan Assoman ciates, New York, and the president is Lee Seabolt, president of Selz, Seabolt, Chicago.

The other companies involved are A. R. Busse Associates, Houston; Hoefer-Amidei Public Relations, San Fraocisco; McCarthy Communications, Minneapolis; Alfred Russell Associates, Denver, and Sihley, Flemister & Com-pany, Atlanta. The group will have "formal affiliations" with firms in Britain, Europe and Japan.

I the Administration's concern that this borrowing may go too far.

A major objection to the Financial Support Fund at Senate hearings on the legislation earlier this year was that it was unnecessary. Skeptical Senators pointed out that the industrialized countries had been able to finance their oil bills by supplies, negotiation with the oil production.

However at the acd of June 1973, before the oil crisis and world recession. The greatest proportionate increase has been by developing countries under the so-called compensatory finance plan, which compensates members for temporary reductions in their export earnings.

While this increasing deficit makes the need to take internal corrective measures more urgent in the view of United States officials, it also increases the aize of the adjustment required.

But the problem of sdjustment is also made more difficult by signs that the economic difficulties of the weaker European countries, such as Britain, Italy and France, may be becoming self-perpetuating.

Both the O.E.C.D., in its publication
Economic Outlook, issued last July, and the I.M.F., in its annual report released this month, warn that inflation in these countries is tending in feed on itself by forcing down their exchange rate, a development that in turn lifts the cost of imported goods and raises prices.

A special newspaper tor. people with limited vision

The New York Times Large Type Weekiv

This unique newspaper gives people with poor vision a chance to read the news. The Large Type Weekly has letters more than twice the size of regular newspaper print and contains a review of the week's major news events from the Sunday Times plus news of business, finance, the arts, entertainment, sports, tamily istyle teatures and much more A thoughtful gift And now you can give a th:ee-month trial subscription to someone at a 20 per cent saving. Instead of $11 for the first three months, pay only $8,80. (After that each three-month period costs $11) To order, call toll-free

UNOPENED HOSPITAL TOURED IN THE BRONX

North Central Shown to Visitors by Dr. Holloman in an Appeal for Quick Approval by State

By LENA WILLIAMS

Dr. John L. S. Holloman, president of the Health and Hospital's Corporation, sponsored a tour of the new North Cantral Bronx Hospital yesterday to prove his contention that it was a bona fide hospital, fully equipped, well-staffed and deserving of an operating certificate from

Some of the politicians, clergymen, and community leaders who took the tour of tha new $100 million, 420-bed hospital, whose wards and emegency rooms were empty of patients, charged that the state, by holding up its operating certificate, was contributing to a health crisis in

"People are being turned away from Jacobi and-Lincoln Hospitals in the Bronx because they can't accommodate them," Dr. Holloman said. "And yet this hospital stands ready to go at a moment's ootice and the state refuses to give us the go-

The State Health Department has refused to issue an operating certificate for the hospital until the Health and Hospital's Corporetion proves it can meet its medical and financial responsibility once the hospital is opened.

All Wards Monitored

On Monday, Dr. Holloman filed suit in State Supreme Court against Dr. Robert P. Whaleo, Commissioner of the State Health Department, to force the Commis-sioner to issue a certificate for the hospital. A hearing has been set for this morn-

Medical experts have called the hospital, at 210th Street and Kossuth Avenue, the most modern, well-equipped and wellstaffed in New York.

Its outstanding features include audio-physiological monitors in each ward, a 12-bed intensive-care unit where patients can be viewed on a screens by masses and physicians, an emergency room that contains two operating rooms and one medical trauma suite, and a nursery with equipment capable of handling premature and neonatal patient care.

A staff of nearly 700 physicians, ourses, technicians, and clerks have been at the hospital since July 1. Harold Weinberg, the executive director of the hospital, said that even though the hospital was closed morthly costs for salesies and

Doctors at the hospital have said that the uncertainty about the date of opening for full services has resulted in the loss of three specialists and other key persoo-

The effect of Mr. Rohatyn's proposal would be to permit the city to "stretch out" the retirement of its bonds over the 20-year period, rether than a much shorter period of time—a step he said could save perhaps $200 million a year in debt service costs and bring about a reduction in the real estate tar, which is Why then has he brought it up again? The answer lies in an assumption by Mr. Rohatyn—ooe that is shared privately by many city and state officials—that residents of New York City, as well as politicians in Washington, have been fulled into a complacency that the fiscal employee pension systems. For a long time, Mr. Rohatyn said recently, he, too, was leaning toward this approach—among other things, it had the distinction of already winning at least partial blessing from Jimmy Carter, the Democratic Presidential nominee.

The crucial reason why Mr. Rohatyn said that he now has rejected this approach, however, lies in something he said he had asserted that few people per-save perhaps $200 million a year in debt service costs and bring about a reduction in the real estate tax, which is pegged to the cost of paying off city bonds.

On the surface, it would seem no more likely for the Federal guarantee idea to win acceptance in Washington this year than it did last year. Skepticism, in fact, was perhaps the most favorable reaction given to Mr. Rohatyn's proposal, from Democrats and Republicans alike.

McCarthy Now Has A Theoretical Chance

WASHINGTON, Sept. 28-Eugene J McCarthy, running as an independent candidate for President, has won ballot status i enough states with enough elec toral votes to make his election in No-vember at least theoretically possible.

In the last two days the former Democratic Senator from Minnesota won court contests that resulted in his heing listed in four more states: Texas, Mass achuetts, Maryland nad Utah.

This raised his total to 29 states with a total of 318 electoral votes. To win the Presideocy, a candidate must take a majority of the 538 electoral votes, or 270. McCarthy representatives are involved in litigation in 11 other states, and two more are still consider-ing whether or not to certify him for a position on the ballot.

About New York

A Commercial, if not Critical, Success

By FRANCIS X. CLINES

His voice is all around us in 6,000 commercials. He has been the Beloved Herring Mayen, Taylor Wines' Answer Grape, Hostess Cakes' Captain Ho-Ho—the separate voices of an entire Greek the separate voices of an entire Greek chorus as America goes to market—snatching at our minds with resonant talk of hamburgers (Burger King), dog foods (Milk Bone, Cycle) and other stuff made vital.

With a radio or TV set on, there is no way to avoid the artistry of Allen Swift as he flattens, raises, plunges, twists and twitters his voice to fit 1,000 oiches in the pantheon of hroadcast huckstering.

But, safe and rich, he could not resist the chance to come out of his soundproofed closet recently and be the soundproofed closet recently and be the star and author of a Broadway comedy. And, quick as it takes a critic to rise up from front row center and get to a typewriter. Mr. Swift was estimated to have bombed.

Never mind the show, entitled "Checking Out," which, despite critical advice, people were laughing through the other night in the half-filled Longacre Theatre. Consider Mr. Swift, the Olivier of the voice-over field, who is quite secure economically as he makes up to 30 commercials a week and manages a national corporation whose assets are his voice box and his imagination.

Mr. Swift is a 52-year-old actor who began his career four decades ago in Brooklyn as a celebrated class clown in his Bensonhurst public school in command performance as Ira Stadlen, he went classroom to classroom and did imitations of the teachers that, he did imitations of the teachers that, he recalls, even broke up the teachers. He graduated to trying the Catskill hotel circuit as stand-up comic, and was ready to quit in the face of the show husiness depression wrought by postwar television when he got a job oo the "Howdy Doody" show. After Bob Smith, the character's originator, had a heart attack, Mr. Swift stepped in and did the principal voice as well in and did the principal voice as well as dozens of others, writing on the side and finding his way. As he recalls these events, Mr. Swift

As he recalls these events, Mr. Swift slips in and out of pertinent voices—the Pete Smith Specialty announcer, the March of Time man—and the effect is more than eotertaining it displays the actor's magic rooted in the abandonment of his own ideotity.

He has acted on the stage before, receiving favorable reviews Off Broadway in "Portrait of the Artist." for example. But he said he had turned down various supporting roles over the years and 'I wanted to do it my way, not be a flunkie," he says of Broadway. So, goaded by a friend, he wrote a play based on an old Yiddish actor he met years ago in the Catskills — "the kind of guy who sat up in bed wearing a beret and an ascot and talked all night about the theater" — and he became the character, Morris Applebaum, at the Longacre.

the character, Morris Applebaum, at the Longacre.

The outcome is we have another broken heart on Broadway, right?

"Well, oot really" Mr. Swift responds, his whitened hair looking unreal off the stage. "I have a lot of chutzpah. My ego isn't really on the line. I try to do the best I can and have some fun."

The problem is he told the sudience.

the other night after the curtain, "the only people who didn't like the play were the critics." "So please tell your friends about it," he said, nodding gratitude as the audience applauded again.

The problem is, he told the audience

Talk of chutzpah can be role playing, too. And as Mr. Swift describes his effort to get to Broadway—badgering producers and angels, working for the nuance that triggers a laugh in time—his disappointment becomes evident.

"I think I carried out my end. I saw the audience reaction in all the right places. Aw, when I think of how much work, I just ..."

He sighs, with oothing extra on his voice, just plain Ira Stadlen.

If money be comfort, withhold your tears. Mr. Swift makes a good deal. He won't say how much but describes the voice-over field as a kind of lottery where "I have managed to hold lots of tickets."

of tickets,"

Fifteen minutes of work idvolving one sentence, for example, earned him $27,000 in 13 weeks some years ago. The ear-shaking line? "Checked all the way with Accuray, they satisfy the most". — delivered for Chesterfield cigarettes in a relling-rich Southern voice conjured by the actor from Bensonhurst.

A few days after his risk opened.

A few days after his play opened, Mr. Swift was making a radio com-mercial only a block from the theater in a converted executive suite where Cecil B. DeMille reigned years ago. Somebow it was all part of show business, particularly when the other actors in the commercial offered congratulations and reassurances to Mr. Swift for his Broadway adventure.

He thanked them and went to work as Christopher Columbus in a Carefree.

TV: Lear's Factory Hums Along

The Norman Lear factory hums along with incredible efficiency. One of its new products, "All's Fair," is already on display at CBS at 9:30 P.M. on Mondays. Another, "The Narrow Walker Show," will be unveiled tomorrow at 9:30 on ABC. Meanwhile, the established series are being carefully monitored and adjusted to insure continuing freshness.

"All in the Family," the series that started television careers for Mr. Lear and his co-producer, Bud Yorkin, nearly six years ago, returned to CBS last week with a one-hour episode that had Edith Bunker walking out an "unfaithful" Archie. Tonight at 9 the crisis will be resolved, at least temporarily, in the program's new weekly half-hour

It can hardly be denied that the series is showing its age. Routines with son-in-law "Meathead" and the racial and ethnic slurs—"You ain't supposed to say dago no more; the wops get sore"—are growing noticeably tired. Worse; there is a perceptible drift to-"The F.C.C.," he continued, "last January ordered the company to divest itself of all but one media property in the Washington market, and this is the result. I understand the $16 million would be the largest cash transaction ever for an AM-FM radio combination."

ward being overly cute. Archie's malapropisms—"The sexual act was never consupated," he explains about his date—have been escalated from occasional frills to full-time and from occasional frills to full-time and counterproductive props. And some new pieces of business, such as the regular use of a "Bronx cheer" are merely silly and out of character.

But, thanks largely to the marvelously shaded and controlled performances of Jean Stapleton and Carroll O'Connor (who is indeed a relative of this writer—but distant, very distant).

O'Connor (who is indeed a relative of this writer—but distant, very distant), "All in the Family" still manages to surprise and amuse.

Tonight's script by Mel Tolkin moves from stock comedy to moving pathos, from daffy lightheartedness to threatening reality, with stunning ease. The transitions from jokes to quiet seriousness are accomplished most deftly. Paul Bogart is the director. Solid, allround professionalism is still scoring heavily on "All in the Family."

"Maude," which was a spinoff from the Bunker series, has given every indication of expiring several times in the past. Reatrice Arthur is devastating in the title role, but the wisecracking character of Maude can become overbearing with prolonged exposure. Obviously aware of the problem, the producers have experimented with two solutions: toning down Maude to "normal" dimensions, as in her analysis session last season, or surrounding her with characters and situations even more outrageous than she is.

The latter route has been taken on this season's first two episodes (CBS, Mondays at 9:30). The first had Maude recovering a borrowed brooch from the corpse of a disliked neighbor. With more than half the program placed in a funeral home, hardly the most likely setting for situation comedy, the episode was almost indecently hilarious.

Last Monday Maude found herself locked in a lawyer's office with her second husband, played by Martin Balsam. Essentially a two-character playlet, the half nour was carried off with verve, intelligence and clever humor.

By now, of course, the Lear factory is a leading beneficiary of the typical show-business syndrome. Talget breeds success, and the success tends to monopolize talent, enabling the fortunate producer to attract and handsomely reward the best and the brightest of available abilities. Surrounded by many of the best producers, directors and available abilities. Surrounded by many of the best producers, directors and writers in television sit-com, demonstrating an uncanny ability to pick the right actors for the right roles—it can be argued convincingly that Mr. Lear owes half his success to casting director Jane Murray—Lear & Company will rarely be less than interesting. They will never be worthless.

The Lear people have now taken Nancy Walker, formerly of "Rhoda," "McMillan" and paper-towel commer-

The Best Place for Advertisers to Invest Their Money is Where Readers Invest Their Time

This message is intended for people in the advertising industry, but we hope you will read it, too.

Advertisers ask important questions when they place their ads. They want information not just about the size of a magazine's circulation but about the readers themselves. Buying power.

Special interests. Education. Possible leadership position in the community.

Even this information, however, is secondary. The best demographics in the world are meaningless unless a magazine makes and sustains contact with the reader. That means reader time.

Advertising space is meaningless without reader time.

Advertisers want readership, not flippership.

How does an advertiser know if the space he buys is justified by the time a reader gives to a magazine?

The advertiser need not be in the dark on where to look for hard answers.

If a large percentage of readers pay the full subscription rate for a magazine, this says something.

If a large percentage of readers subscribe not just for part of a year but for a full year or more, this says something.

Now consider the evidence:

The Saturday Review is Number
One among all weekly and bi-weekly magazines in terms of the percentage of, people who subscribe and re-subscribe at full rate.

The Saturday Review is Number One among all general interest magazines in terms of the percentage of readers who subscribe in advance for three years at full rate.

Reader time and reader dollars go together.

Against this background of reader commitment, the demographics take on special importance:

The Saturday Review is Number One among all magazines in terms of the percentage of readers who graduated from college—60.7%... of whom over 60% went on to graduate or professional training after college.

Three among all general interest mac zines in terms of the percentage of rea who have household incomes of ove $25,000...32.1%.

—The Saturday Review is Nun 3 25 One among all general interest maga in terms of the percentage of readers are strong public activists—more that times the national average.

Together, SR's impressive reac profile and reader involvement make dramatically clear: The best place for advertisers to invest their dollars is wh readers invest their time.
